$1.8 Billion to Bomber

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon awarded contracts totaling nearly $1.8 billion Friday toward development of the B1, a strategic bomber to replace the B52. The B1 is designed to sweep in under enemy radar and fire nuclear-tipped missiles. North American Rockwell Corp. and General Electric were given the contracts to design, develop and test the plane.

Ky Returns from Cambodia

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky returned here today from a two-day official visit to Cambodia, warning that the allies' Cambodian operation could become a "failure in the future" if the enemy is allowed to return to its former border sanctuaries.

"If we are just satisfied with the results we have gotten until now and we stop our move and go back and sleep and discuss politics, then the enemy will come back in a few months," Ky told newsmen.

$2.2 Million to Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has disbursed $2.2 million to school districts with a high proportion of students whose parents are federal employees.

The stopgap aid was handed out Friday to 10 districts in particular financial straits which had threatened to end the school year early, exclude children of federal employees or charge tuition.

The districts are called impacted areas and include such cities as Bellevue, Neb., and Grand Forks, Neb., two cities with large military installations nearby.

The 10 districts are among hundreds adversely affected by a congressional restriction on the aid. They are receiving only 77 per cent of their entitled money, based on a federal formula. Last year they got 90 per cent.

U.S. Navy Denies Spy Ship Sank

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea claims it sank a "heavily armed" U.S. spy ship in the Yellow Sea, but the U.S. Navy has denied the charge, saying it has no ships operating in the area.

South Korea announced Friday that one of its vessels, on a routine mission to prevent South Korean fishing boats from straying north of the border, was attacked by two North Korean patrol boats and towed off toward the north. North Korea issued its claim later in the day, and there was speculation the

Admiral Will Speak At Cape

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Rear Admiral Sheldon H. Kinney, one of the Navy's outstanding flag officers, will address the Cape Girardeau council of the Navy League of the United States, at a dinner meeting Thursday night, Lynn Twitty of Sikeston, president of the council, announced today.

Admiral Kinney distinguished himself at the Naval Academy and was honored as the graduate standing highest in conduct and aptitude during his four years there. He was awarded the Navy and Marine Corps Medal for Outstanding Heroism aboard the USS Sturtevant, a destroyer escort, during World War II and later received the Navy Cross, the nation's second highest decoration, as commanding officer of the USS Bronstein, which sank three German submarines during a four and one-half hour period. In addition to the navy cross, he was awarded the legion of merit, the bronze star medal during WWII and other citations for service in the Korean and Viet Nam Conflicts.

Admiral Kinney has served as an instructor at the U.S. naval academy and also as a commandant of midshipmen there. He is assistant chief of naval personnel for education and training, Navy Department, Washington, D. C. He holds two graduate academic degrees, including the Juris Doctorate Degree from George Washington University, and has written numerous articles for popular and professional journals. Admiral Kinney is regarded as an authority on college and university student attitudes relative to the current scene and the topic of his address before the Cape Girardeau Council will be "The American University and the Armed Forces."

The Council has about 100 members in Southeast Missouri. The league, national in scope with 42,000 members in some 300 counties, is regarded as the civilian arm of the Navy and is active in support of an adequate and efficient armed force.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even President Nixon had to obey doctor's orders and settle for an intermediary when he tried to telephone the pilot wounded in Thursday's bizarre hijacking.

Capt. Dale C. Hupe, shot once in the abdomen during a fight for the hijacker's gun in the cockpit of the Trans World Airlines jet, could not accept Nixon's call Friday afternoon. He was in good condition in Fairfax Hospital in nearby Virginia, but was recovering from three hours of surgery.

Nurse Mary Jane Mastorovich told Nixon Hupe could not be disturbed and took the President's message.

"I served with Captain Hupe on Guadalcanal during World War II and I would like for you to express my personal best wishes to him and that I wish him a speedy recovery. He went through the entire war without a scratch," the nurse related Nixon said. "It's too bad he had to be injured now this way."

Nixon's and Hupe's service together came in the South Pacific when Nixon was a lieutenant junior grade on Guadalcanal for the South Pacific Air Transport Command. Marine Capt. Hupe flew numerous missions for the command.

Sihanouk Says Red China to Help Him

PARIS (AP) — Prince Norodom Sihanouk said today Mao Tse-tung has promised Red Chinese arms and financial backing to topple the Cambodian government that ousted him in March.

In an interview recorded in Peking by the French-owned Radio Luxembourg, Sihanouk expressed confidence of victory but showed concern because the Soviet Union has not recognized his exile government.

His interviewer, Ahmed Miske, said Sihanouk and his family lived in a large residence in a section of Peking reserved for high foreign dignitaries. "Chairman Mao Tse-tung was kind enough to receive me," Sihanouk said. "He told me, 'We will lend you the money you need for your diplomacy and your affairs of state. But where arms are concerned, we are not in the habit of playing the role of arms merchants. We cannot sell you any arms. We will give them to you. And their transportation (to Cambodia) will also be free of charge.'"

With the help of Chinese aid, Sihanouk added: "We hope to recover Phnom Penh in the not too distant future. It is a question of holding out for one year, two years, three years at the most. We can repay the loan after the victory."

Sihanouk made no reference to "Chinese people's volunteers," which Chau Seng, one of his ministers, said in Paris Friday might be deployed against the Americans and South Vietnamese in Cambodia.

Set-Aside Proposal Defeated

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Executive Committee hearing with Secretary of Agriculture Hardin on May 12, 1970, Burdison had commented with respect to the "set-aside," "I do not seem to be able to get anybody on the Committee, or in the Department that is willing to face up to this, and would like to know if there is some factor here that I cannot see, and I have not been able to see, up to this point?" Burdison said Secretary Hardin referred his comment to his Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, Clarence Palmy, who in essence admitted that the administration program provided for less farm income than under the present program.

Israelis, Arabs Mark Anniversary with Raids

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Israelis and Arabs marked the third anniversary of the six-day Middle East war with a new round of raids—the Israelis in the air, Arab commandos on the ground.

Israeli warplanes assaulted Egyptian military targets along the Suez Canal for 11 hours Friday and then returned at night for another 3 1/2 hours.

The military command in Tel Aviv said the heavy bombing was aimed at reducing Israeli casualties along the waterway and preventing an Egyptian buildup.

Arab guerrillas staged sporadic border raids Friday and resumed them today, firing rockets from Lebanon into the Kiryat Shomona area of Upper Galilee, the Tel Aviv command said.

In six days the Israelis have hit Egyptian canal targets for about 60 hours, in line with the new strategy announced Friday by Lt. Gen. Haim Bar-Lev, Israeli chief of staff, in an anniversary statement.

Bar-Lev said that Israeli forces have shifted from a policy of retaliation to "continuous military activity" in order to

Soviet Naval Buildup in Indian Ocean Presses U.S.

PORT SWETTENHAM, Malaysia (AP) — The Soviet naval buildup in the Indian Ocean is pressing the United States into a similar expansion, parts of the world it would be desirable to have my ships in those areas," he said.

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Cambodian tanks and infantry blunted a heavy Communist-led attack today on the provincial capital of Siem Reap, four miles south of the ancient Cambodian capital of Angkor Wat.

A responsible military source said the enemy troops were withdrawing toward Angkor Wat, the site of historic ruins from the ancient Cambodian empire.

The fighting centered around the provincial airport two miles northwest of Siem Reap. The informant said enemy forces had been cleared from the airport but that he did not know whether it had reopened. It closed down after sporadic fighting Friday.

Reports from Siem Reap indicated that street fighting had died down but that some North Vietnamese and Viet Cong units were still in the town.

Some sources said Siem Reap is defended by a large Cambodian force and that the enemy attack apparently was aimed more at embarrassing the Phnom Penh government than at capturing and holding the territory. A big enemy victory near Angkor Wat would receive publicity because of the name of the ancient capital.

Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops also kept up their pressure today in other parts of Cambodia, and spokesmen in Phnom Penh said the current offensive is the enemy's largest and most widespread since U.S. and South Vietnamese troops entered the country's eastern provinces a month ago.

The enemy kept up heavy pressure on Kompong Cham, a provincial capital 80 miles north of Phnom Penh. The source in Phnom Penh said enemy troops had seized control of Highway 6 between the Cambodian capital and Kompong Cham and were barring even civilian traffic from the road.

This, the informant said, was only one of many indicators of the steadily deteriorating military situation in Cambodia.

Belcher said U.S. aid would top the $1 million mark by today. Belcher also reported that an American mining company, Cerro de Pasco Corp., had succeeded in opening a circuitous "back door" route to the shattered valley in the north-central Peru, and that two 14 choppers aboard to help ferry supplies into the stricken Huaylas canyon and carry out residents injured in the massive quake Sunday.

The United States dispatched the helicopter carrier Guam with 14 choppers aboard to help ferry supplies into the stricken Huaylas canyon and carry out residents injured in the massive quake Sunday.

U.S. Ambassador Taylor sent six transport planes to help drop supplies into the valley.

Peru's director of information, Augusto Zimmerman, said he could not confirm new estimates of 50,000 dead, cabled to U.N. headquarters from a representative of the world organization in Lima.

But Zimmerman said: "If you asked me whether 40,000 died instead of 30,000, I would have to say maybe, I don't know."

The disaster also hit to the west of the Huaylas Canyon, in the snowcapped cordillera Blanca, or White Range. Rescue crews still have had no time to search for survivors there but a cursory survey showed hundreds of villages and hamlets probably buried by landslides.

Angkor Wat, 185 miles northwest of Phnom Penh, is the site of 40 square miles of some of the most imposing temple ruins in Cambodia. The government began evacuating tourists from the area Friday, but the airport was then closed and it was not known whether all of the tourists got out safely.

Sporadic fighting had been reported near the airport Friday. Military officials said then that the closest known North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces were 60 miles away and that the clashes probably involved a Cambodian Communist, known as Khmer Rouge.

Fighting as far as Siem Reap surprised officials in Phnom Penh, who up to now have had to deal mostly with enemy pressure northeast and south of the capital.

The action at Siem Reap spread Cambodia's small and inexperienced army still thinner, but officials had hopes that Thai troops would arrive in the area soon. There have been reports that some troops from Thailand would be assigned there.

Communist-led forces were also reported building up their strength in the area of Kompong Speu, another provincial capital 27 miles west of Phnom Penh. A military spokesman said North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops had overrun An Leang, a district capital in Kompong Speu Province 35 miles northwest of Phnom Penh.

Officials in Phnom Penh indicated that it was too early to evaluate the enemy threat in Kompong Speu, but said the mounting activity there indicated that North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces were moving west away from the American and South Vietnamese thrust into Cambodia's eastern provinces.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported a battle near Kampot, a Cambodian city 17 miles north of the Vietnam border on the Gulf of Siam. South Vietnamese and President Nixon to withdraw all Cambodian troops have been U.S., South Vietnamese and conducting a joint operation Thai troops from Cambodia there in search of enemy supply caches.

The U.S. Command also reported the loss of two other helicopters. A light observation ship was shot down northeast of the A Shau valley, in South Vietnam, killing the two crewmen, and a U.S. Marine aircraft was downed Thursday in the Southern Laos panhandle with the loss of one man killed and four wounded.

The sharpest ground engagement reported in South Vietnam was in the northern Mekong Delta, where South Vietnamese infantrymen clashed with Viet Cong forces 54 miles southwest of Saigon. The government troops killed 17 of the enemy and captured seven. South Vietnamese losses were 14 killed and 40 wounded, military sources said.

Danforth Gives Views on School Tax

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth has held a school tax levy is good only for the period the voters approved. After that it reverts to the constitutional maximum of $1.25.

Rep. Harlan A. Gould, R-Kirkwood, raised the question and asked for a quick answer because the Kirkwood R-7 District has a levy election coming up June 16.

He said the present levy for school purposes is $4.47 and school voters have been told that if they turn down the levy increase proposed for the June 16 election the tax will stay at that rate.

Danforth's opinion noted that the 1945 constitution says a levy voted above the rate of 1.25 per $100 assessed valuation is good only for the period for which it was voted. In the Kirkwood case, the voters authorized a one-year increase of $3.22 above the $1.25 constitutional limit.

Therefore, if the June 16 levy proposal is rejected and fails to school purposes is $4.47 and school voters have been told that if they turn down the levy increase proposed for the June 16 election the tax will stay at that rate.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Overheard at the Coffee Table: "Next to being shot at and missed, nothing really is quite as satisfying as an income tax refund."

LET'S HOPE THEY GOT THE MESSAGE

A small handful of "doves" in Washington have claimed that they were "surprised" and "confused" by our Cambodian action. There is no reason why they should be. In a major policy speech on Vietnam on November 3, 1969, which was heard and read by millions of Americans, the President announced our policy of gradual withdrawal, and the reduction of our forces by 60,000 men before the end of 1969. (Over 100,000 have now been withdrawn). But the President also enunciated a very clear, and in our opinion unmistakable warning. He said:

"Along with this optimistic estimate, I must in all candor leave one note of caution... I want the record to be completely clear on one point... I want to be sure there is no misunderstanding on the part of the enemy... 'We have noted the reduced level of infiltration and the reduction of our casualties and are basing our withdrawal decisions partially on those factors.'

"Hanoi could make no greater mistake than to assume that an increase in violence will be to its own advantage. If I conclude that increased enemy action jeopardizes our remaining forces in Vietnam, I shall not hesitate to take strong and effective measures to deal with that situation."

"This is not a threat," said the President. "This is a statement of policy which as Commander-in-Chief of our Armed Forces I am making in meeting my responsibility for the protection of American fighting men wherever they may be."

On November 14 last year, in another major policy declaration, the President said:

"...I reaffirm now our willingness to withdraw our forces on a specified timetable. We ask only that North Vietnam withdraw its forces from South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos into North Vietnam, also in accordance with a timetable."

"We include Cambodia and Laos to ensure that these countries would not be used as bases for a renewed war."

When, in April of this year, the Communists did increase their aggression on the Cambodian front, stepping up their infiltration to an estimated 80,000 armed troops and guerilla fighters, they were, in effect, calling our bluff.

Let us fervently hope that, this time, the Communists got the message. The withdrawal program of the United States does not contemplate turning the people of South Vietnam over to the tender mercies of the Red goons and killers. The war in Vietnam will be over on the day that the communists cease their aggression and withdraw their troops to North Vietnam. And let not the enemy misinterpret our prayers toward that end as a sign of weakness.

It was revealed by the Central Illinois Public Service Company that in case you feel sorry for the next hitchhiker you see, don't stop! The results of a year-long study of hitchhikers on the New Jersey Turnpike are likely to change any sympathetic attitudes toward people who try to "thumb rides". The study found that of the hitchhikers encountered, 162 were runaways, 98 military AWOL's, seven escapees from mental institutions, five escaped convicts and 501 persons with criminal fingerprint records. ### PRESS FREEDOM

Political police in Argentina have closed down several magazines and temporarily stopped publication of Cronica, the largest daily newspaper in Latin America. In Peru, the military government has expropriated two newspapers—Expreso and Extra—imprisoned newsmen and expelled Elsa Arana Freira, a newspaperwoman with Bolivian citizenship. In Bolivia, the press operates under government restrictions and threats. Strict press decrees have been promulgated in Brazil and Panama. In Cuba, Haiti and Paraguay, the media have been brought to heel and report what the governments wish.

All this makes the celebration of Freedom of the Press Day on Sunday, June 7, an exercise in irony, futility and anger. It is being promoted this year as a day of "defiance and determination" by the sponsoring Inter American Press Association. IAPA President James S. Copley, of the Copley chain, has noted that "the flag of freedom flies at half mast" in the Western Hemisphere.

By comparison, the running feud between Vice President Agnew and the media in this country has the appearance of a tepid tempest. The IAPA with nearly 600 member newspapers in the United States—does not regard the situation lightly, however. In a recent statement (April 1970) the association said: "There is freedom of the press (in America) but it does not exist without challenge." While Agnew's potshots were noted, the organization was more concerned by what it called the "arbitrary and capricious use" of discretionary powers vested in various public officials.

During the past 15 years, 17,525.2 miles of gravel roads have been oiled in Missouri at a cost of $28,506,410. About 950 miles were graveled in 1969 at a cost of $1,304,950.

WHAT TEENAGERS WANT MOST

Wonder what young people want most from their parents these days? You are not alone. Recently a regional PTA asked the teachers in several Junior High and Senior High schools to request their pupils to write unsigned papers on the subject: "What are the things you wish your parents would do or not do?"

No guidelines were issued. No other questions were asked. The idea was to draw answers "straight off the top of the heads" of the young students. Some of the replies may come as a surprise. A count showed that the wishes expressed most often were:

Be stricter.
Be more dedicated to church work and go to church as a family.

Be fun loving.
Treat my friends like they were welcome.
Try to understand me and my friends.
Don't treat me like a child but depend on me more.
Tell me right from wrong, but don't be too harsh about it.

Not fuss at me before other people.
Not curse, not drink, not smoke.
Answer simple questions without giving a lecture.
Ask my opinion instead of demanding.
Be trustworthy.

Sometimes it takes me a long time to explain why I did something and I'm convicted before the trial begins.
I would like my parents to be more thoughtful of one another. Love one another. Love me.

We are not told where the survey was held. But it is interesting, and significant, that the students should express the wish that parents "be stricter." This would appear to indicate that the so-called "permissive society" of the adult world is not entirely to the liking of young people. The replies show that these youths felt a need for more discipline, along with understanding and a healthy measure of self-discipline on the part of the parents, too.

The leading automobile manufacturers spent over 100 million dollars for newspaper advertising during 1963. The automotive industry as a whole spent some 300 million dollars for newspaper space during the year.

These figures do not include the huge amount invested in automotive advertising by local dealers, used car companies, and garages. An all inclusive figure would total more than a billion dollars.

This may appear to be a great deal of money to pour into sales and promotion. But the investment should be judged in terms of results. The advertising helped bring about record sales of goods and services. It brought record profits to manufacturers and retailers. It helped to keep millions of men employed.

The leading American automobile manufacturers learned long ago that the engineering of a good car did not assure success. Countless fine automobiles have been built by firms which did not meet the competition in advertising effort.

General Motors, Ford, and Chrysler have continued to thrive while remaining the three largest newspaper advertisers in the world. The giant national firms have never lost sight of the fact that production is not complete until a sale has been made.

And their continued use of the newspaper, especially in the introduction of new models, reaffirms their belief in the long standing axiom that "all sales are local, and the basic local medium is the community newspaper."

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — To quiet the uproar over recession, President Nixon is preparing a major economic address that will reject wage-price controls and extol the soundness of the American economy.

He will blame his economic woes upon an overheated economy that he inherited from the Democrats, and he will reassure jittery businessmen that the nation will pull out of its economic tailspin during the last half of the year.

Those who have discussed economic policy with the President say he is willing to take any measures that may be necessary to prevent a serious recession. His economic advisers have persuaded him, however, that the steps already taken will stabilize the economy without more drastic controls.

They have stressed that the economy responds slowly to policy changes and that the changes must be kept within bounds to avoid extreme impacts.

There is always an outside chance, of course, that those who advocate stronger controls will change his mind before his economic speech is locked in final form. But this is considered unlikely.

The President's economic policymakers, who meet formally as the Cabinet committee on economic policy, have held 14 secret sessions since the Republican takeover. At more than half of these meetings, George Romney, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, has pressed for wage-price controls.

At times, Secretary of the Treasury David Kennedy and Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans seemed almost persuaded. But the opposition, led by chief economist Paul McCracken and Secretary of Labor George Schultz, always prevailed.

SECRET MEETINGS
The last meeting was held on May 14 during the stock market's worst spasms, but the planners showed no panic. Vice President Agnew, who presided in President Nixon's absence, alluded to a news report that Romney and Stans were plotting to drop him from the ticket in 1972.

Taking a seat between Romney and Stans, the Vice President grinned. "Here I sit amid my enemies," he said. McCracken gave a brief analysis of the stock market. The only danger, he said, was that falling stock prices might create "an atmosphere of pessimism" and give "a misleading impression of the economy."

This could influence consumers to hold back, purchases and businessmen to cut back spending. Otherwise, he was optimistic that both the stock market and the economy would rebound.

Shultz, in a detailed report on productivity, warned that the U.S. was shifting to a service economy. As workers demanded more money for less work, he said, the increases had to be taken out of the economy in the form of higher prices or lower profits.

The Secretary of Labor reported that more "marginal workers" were entering the work force, causing a decrease in the quality as well as the quantity of U.S. goods, the problem is aggravated, he said, by a "loss of motivation."

He complained that the U.S. had fallen behind most other industrial nations in "labor productivity" during the past year or two. He cited the example of Japan, which not only gets better productivity out of its work force but keeps its plants modernized by investing 20 per cent of its output into capital improvements.

The label, "Made in Japan," once meant shoddy, inferior goods. Now it is preferred in many markets to the "Made in the U.S.A." label.

Shultz suggested that the tax laws should be revised to encourage capital investments instead of consumption. But all the policymakers agreed generally that the economic outlook is much better than the financial pages make it appear.

CAMPUS REPORT
Eight young White House aides have just returned from a tour of college campuses to find out for President Nixon what the students are saying.

Each aide visited three campuses, including those where the action has been the hottest. In a preliminary report to senior aides, who gathered in

God Save the Queen
UNLESS Congress does something between now and
Nov. 2, the Delta Queen, the last real packet on the Mississippi River system, gets the ax from Uncle Sam.

The reason is ridiculous. A government agency has decreed that the "safety-at-sea" regulations, which outlaw any ship carrying more than 50 overnight passengers if it is not built entirely out of steel, must apply to riverboats as well.

For four years the Delta Queen has been operating under a temporary congressional reprieve. The Queen's hull is steel. But its superstructure, in the tradition of riverboats, is wood. The noble curved staircase is mahogany trimmed with brass. The deck is hand-pegged ironwood. The 28-foot stern wheel is made of planking, and the cabins are paneled in oak.

THE Greene Line of Cincinnati, which sends the Delta Queen on cruises down the Ohio and Mississippi and up the Tennessee and Cumberland, has made a valiant effort to meet the government demands.

ONLY two shipyards ever bid on plans for an all-steel, diesel-electric motorship. The estimated cost was $10 million.
Not many American river-lovers could afford the fares necessary to amortize such an investment. THE safety-at-sea regulations were designed to protect passengers hundreds of miles from land and hours from help. A riverboat runs between river banks. Sure, there's some fire danger in a wooden superstructure. There is also a little danger in stacking up 10
707s over O'Hare on a night when the birds are walking.

There's some danger in walking the streets of Washington in daylight.
To knock off the Delta Queen because of a law designed for ocean liners would be like pulling down the Tower of London because it doesn't meet city fire escape regulations for public places.

No one would think of allowing passengers to hang on the outside of a New York City bus, but people hang all over San Francisco's wonderful cable cars.
If we are going to keep any flavor in America, somewhere there must be an area of common sense.

THE Delta Queen, as all river
buffs know, was not born to the inland rivers at all. She started life in 1926 on the overnight
Sacramento-San Francisco run.
Still, she looks like a riverboat

around the ang.
We need these things.
God save the Delta Queen.

Most of the time you float through utter wilderness, for the flood plain between the levees is chancy land, given over to cypress and cottonwood, mysterious pools and Spanish moses. Beyond the levees there may be cities and super roads and locomotive horns and people standing in line. The river hears only the call of the heron, the splash of the muskrat and the gurgle of brown waters
around the ang.

THE Delta Queen, as all river
buffs know, was not born to the

A fellow was hobbling about on crutches. "What on earth is the matter with you?" a friend asked.

"I broke my leg," said the hobbler.
"How did you do that?"
"Well, you see, I was crossing a street one dark night, threw a cigarette in a manhole and stepped on it."

The handsome prince rode for four days and four nights to a king who had two beautiful daughters. But he married the king. The reason? This is a fairy story!

She was a spoiled young girl. She got married and before long, her tummy started protruding. Her mother, not wanting her spoiled daughter to worry, explained it was "just air."

When the girl told her husband that her mother said it was "just air," the husband said, "What does your mother mean, I'm carrying here, a bicycle pump?"

A friend of ours quit smoking and didn't tell his wife. She went crazy looking for the ashes!

The mother of a healthy young lad complains that after washing "Junior" she has to wash the soap.

Volkswagen in Tucson ran a newspaper ad showing a Christmas tree fastened to the top of a VW. The headline: "May you always have a little something under your tree."

The National Tuberculosis Association was organized in 1904?

An alarmed motorist stopped hurriedly when he saw a young man standing beside an overturned small sports car. "Anybody hurt in the down as Samson."

There is no magic formula for the life insurance salesman, or any other salesman. Work and practice make their own rules.

"What made you believe in flying saucers?"
"I pinched the waitress."

A track laborer had been moving timbers and ties until he was completely worn out. At the end of the day he approached the foreman and said: "Boss, you sure you got my name right?"

"Yes, here you are — Simpson, John Simpson, isn't that right?"

"Yes, boss, that's right. I thought maybe you had me down as Samson."

So the government continued to push — behind the scenes. A few days after Mr. Lally spoke out, the black leaders opened up. They set a deadline — Monday, May 25. They said they'd meet the construction workers in the streets — with guns if necessary — to halt work unless their followers were absorbed in the big construction jobs. They had no patience with reports of declining work and employment.

Then the telephone wires heated up. Labor Dept. people talked with George Meany, AFL-CIO president. Privately he telephoned the Pittsburgh building officials. They agreed to attend a mayor's conference on Friday, May 15. There was temporary peace.

But "we sense a really dangerous situation between the blacks and the building trades and we are very fearful of an explosion inside federal official. But the White House is not backing down. Nor is it asking George Shultz to cool it. There have been no calls from the President to his labor Secretary to ease federal policy — which is not AFL-CIO policy. Few things anger Mr. Meany as much as the President's Philadelphia Plan, which the labor chief charges is ineffective and would hurt the construction trades and black workers as well.

But while Mr. Nixon, Mr. Meany and the hard hats may be allies, as some have put it, the government has begun pushing hard. Mr. Shultz gave the District of Columbia unions here a ultimatum to launch their home town plan. They did not. So late that deadline afternoon the Secretary of Labor insisted that the government crack down.

So now there is the "Washington plan," tougher and more wide-ranging than Philadelphia's controversial blueprint.

Instead of covering 6 trades, the new plan covers 11 — excluding the carpenters which have 16 per cent minority workers among their national membership. Also it appears that the contractors now must hire their "goals" of black workers even on non-federally funded projects in the District.

Furthermore, the big push is coming — first on six "home town" plan for opening construction jobs to black men, there will be Seattle, Boston, Detroit, Atlanta, Los Angeles and Newark plans. Then the others.

Richard Nixon made no deal with the hard hats. Their No. 1 leader, New York's Peter Brennan, asked no favors for his unions or their fraternal councils elsewhere.

It's still a free country. Lots of people have lots of ideas on how to keep it that way. One way is to agree to disagree — emphatically but peacefully.

"We recognize an affirmative action program is required," said Jim Lally, president of the Pittsburgh Building and Construction Trades Council (AFL-CIO). "We cannot be governed by a guaranteed quota system because of the uncertainties of economic conditions in the construction industry. Numerous crafts are faced with unemployment at the present time.

Mr. Lally rejected both the "home town" plan and the "Philadelphia Plan" approaches — despite government warning that all federally funded building projects would be halted if there were not some quantitative admission of blacks into the unions and trade.

Mr. Lally feels strongly. So does Mr. Shultz. He noted that the 850-member electrical workers local there had but one black member.

So the government continued to push — behind the scenes. A few days after Mr. Lally spoke out, the black leaders opened up. They set a deadline — Monday, May 25. They said they'd meet the construction workers in the streets — with guns if necessary — to halt work unless their followers were absorbed in the big construction jobs. They had no patience with reports of declining work and employment.

Ann Landers
Personal Experiences of Drug User
May Prove Helpful to Experimenters

Dear Ann Landers: I read the letter from the hippie signed "Ashamed To Go Back." I was in her shoes—if she had shoes, that is, I didn't.

When I split it was because home was a drag and my mind was really spaced from drugs. I thought San Francisco, L.A. and Mexico had a lot in store for me. Well, I was right. It had acid, pot, 13 people in a three-room apartment and V.D., and thrift stores where you could buy someone's beat-up jeans for $1.

I dug being "free." I thought loving and sharing was beautiful—until I woke up one morning in a Phoenix hospital. The speed I had shared with two other freaks had strychnine in it. You would have thought I learned my lesson but no, it happened again—an O.D. (overdose) of LSD. After that experience I knew the next time I'd kill myself so I decided to go home. I didn't have a cent so I thumbed my way from the West Coast to Ohio. When I got home I walked around the block four times before I could work up the courage to ring the bell.

My mom almost keeled over when she saw me. She threw her arms around my neck and cried. Dad didn't say much but I know he felt the same way. He went into the other room to shed his tears.

I hope every kid who reads this and is "Ashamed To Go Back" will take my word for it. Home is the best place to be and your folks will be happy to see you. I still haven't found myself but I'm alive and looking—and thankful for small favors.—Back From Hell

Dear Back: A good way to "find yourself" is to offer your services to your local drug treatment center and help rehabilitate others who are spaced out and have split.

Dear Ann Landers: I have been going with a man who is truly wonderful in a great many ways. When my husband passed away last year we started to keep company and Ben has made me smile again. He has one little fault that bothers me terribly.

The two of us often have dinner out—always in a very nice place. When the dinner check is presented he puts on his bifocals and adds it up two or three times, checking every item against the charge. He frequently questions the waiter, which I find embarrassing.

He asks why there was an extra charge for the dessert. (He was under the impression it came with the dinner.) If there is a charge for a second vegetable, he says he ordered it instead of the salad. When he finds an error in the bill he gloats. Usually it is just poor arithmetic, but he points out that the mistakes are invariably in the house's favor, which I cannot deny.

I wish he would just pay the bill when it is presented as my husband used to do. Should I tell him?—Riverside

Dear Riv: No one should pay any kind of bill without looking at it and adding it up. Waiters make mistakes and so do machines because people operate them. You should not be embarrassed because you friend is cautious. It shows he has good sense.

Expos Finally Cardinals, Royals Win, Mauch Happy Go Down in Defeat

Nasty that Gene Mauch has finally tasted victory after two long weeks of bitter losses, the optimistic field general of the lowly Montreal Expos is filled with thoughts of winning.

The Expos did it the hard way Friday night, coming from behind with a pair of runs in the seventh and getting a ninth inning homer from Coco Laboy, to beat Atlanta 3-2.

The triumph snapped Montreal's losing streak at 11 games—the longest in the majors this season—but still left the two-year-old expansion club at the bottom of the National League Eastern Division, 11 1/2 games behind Chicago.

In other games, the Cubs routed San Francisco 12-3, Cincinnati downed New York 5-4 in an eight-inning rain-shortened contest, Pittsburgh blanked Los Angeles 3-0, San Diego nipped Philadelphia 11 in 11, 8-7.

In the American League, New York trounced Chicago 10-1, Baltimore edged Milwaukee 3-2, Minnesota topped Washington 2-1, Boston whipped Kansas City 4-2, Oakland beat Detroit 4-2 and California topped Cleveland 2-1.

Four Expos hurlers stopped the major league's hottest hitter, Rico Carty. Carty, the Braves' left fielder went 0-for-3 and dropped seven points to .428.

The Braves jumped to a 2-0 lead but the Expos tied it off starter George Stone in the seventh on three consecutive hits after two were out. John Boccabella doubled, a single by Bobby Venable followed and Bob Bailey's double tied it at 2-2.

Laboy then stroked his game winning off veteran reliever Hoyt

Willhelm in the ninth. The Cubs bombed Juan Marichal and three successors for 16 hits—four by Jim Hickman, increasing their lead over the Mets to four games. Ron Santo cracked a two-run homer for the Cubs while Ken Henderson and Willie McCovey slammed homers for the Giants.

Willie Mays was injured slightly when he collided in the outfield with Bob Taylor. The Giants' center fielder suffered bruised ribs and a slight cut finger.

Tony Perez seared his 20th homer of the season—a three-run shot and Lee May lashed a tie-breaking single in the sixth as the Reds downed the Mets in a rain-marred game. The Mets fell to their third straight defeat despite solo homers by Joe Foy and Bobby Aage.

Tommy Moore blanked the Dodgers on six hits and the Pirates' right-hander got support from run-scoring singles by Roberto Clemente, Matty Alou and Gene Alley. Moore struck out eight and didn't walk a batter.

Clarence Gaston drove in a pair of runs with a double and single to back the eight-hit pitching of winner Pat Dobson and reliever Roberto Rodriguez in the Padres' victory over the Cards.

Denis Menke stroked a runcoring single in the 11th with one out as the Astros rode to their fourth straight victory. Norm Miller's sacrifice fly in the ninth had tied it for the Astros after Ron Stone's three-run double had given the Phils a 7-6 edge in the eighth.

San Diego's Clarence Gaston and Boston's Carl Yastrzemski were villains to the Cardinals and Royals Friday night as the Padres nipped St. Louis 3-2 and the Red Sox edged Kansas City 4-2.

Gaston drove in two runs, including the deciding tally in the seventh inning, with a double and a single to pace the Padres past the Redbirds.

San Diego went out in front 1-0 in the opening inning on a walk to Steve Huntz, a former Cardinal, and a double by Nate Colbert.

St. Louis tied it in the bottom of the inning when Richie Allen singled in a run. Gaston doubled in Huntz in the third but Joe Torre singled in a Cardinal run in the sixth to tie the game 2-2.

Yastrzemski hit a tremendous home run off Royal starter Bill Butler, 2-4, in the fifth inning to break a 2-2 tie and give Boston its third straight victory.

The Red Sox scored twice in the first on a single by Reggie Smith, a walk, a single by Tony Conigliaro and a force play.

Kansas City's Bob Oliver hit a solo homer in the third and the Royals added another run in the fourth on a walk to Joe Keough and singles by Amos Otis and Mike.

Mike Navy, 1-0, was credited with the victory.

Tonight in St. Louis, Steve Carlton, 3-6, will pitch against Danny Coombs, 5-4, for the Padres.

The afternoon in Boston, Dave Morehead, 3-1, was to pitch against Gary Peters, 3-6, for the Red Sox.

Ernie Banks, ever the happy optimist, has something more to jump for joy about than merely another sun-shining Chicago day. His 500th home run was another milestone in his career with the Cubs.

Rookie Hurls Victory for Twins

Nine years ago, Bert Blyleven knew nothing about the Little League. Today, the American League knows all about Bert Blyleven. "He's everything I've seen. I've got to rate him people said he was," said Washington slugger Frank Howard after the Senators came out on the short end of a 2-1 score against the Minnesota Twins Friday night in Blyleven's major league debut.

The 19-year-old right-hander, called up from the American Association earlier this week to replace the injured Luis Tiant, hurled seven innings and allowed five hits. The only run came on Lee Maye's leadoff homer.

"I'm glad it happened that way," said Blyleven. "You know, you get the nervousness out of your system, but I would have liked to strike him out. I imagine Mr. Rigney and the rest of them got nervous with that homerun."

Elsewhere in the AL, Baltimore edged Milwaukee 3-2, the New York Yankees ripped the Chicago White Sox 10-1, California nipped Cleveland 2-1, Oakland downed Detroit 4-1 and Boston beat Kansas City 4-2.

In National League play, Cincinnati tripped the New York Mets 5-4 in a rain-shortened eight-inning game, the Chicago Cubs outslugged San Francisco 12-8, Montreal got by Atlanta 3-2, Pittsburgh blanked Los Angeles 3-0, San Diego defeated St. Louis 3-2 and Houston turned back Philadelphia 8-7 in 11 innings.

The road to the majors for Riccahl Blyleven began in Zeist, Holland, where he was born. The family moved to Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, Canada, in 1953 and to southern California in 1957, where Blyleven starred at Garden Grove High.

Blyleven was the Twins' third choice in the free-agent draft last June and went on to post a 7-2 record in two rookie leagues and a sensational 8-0 mark in the Florida Instructional League.

Chiefs Sign No.1 Choice

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Chiefs have signed their No. 1 draft choice, Sid Smith, 1969 second team All-American offensive tackle from Southern California.

Smith's signing was announced Thursday by Coach Hank Stram, who did not disclose terms in keeping with policy of the Chiefs not to reveal such figures.

Stram said Smith has recovered "extremely well from his knee operation" that kept the Trojan star out of the Rose Bowl game Jan. 1.

"Sid has all the credentials you look for in a No. 1 selection," Stram said. "He has a winning background and a winning attitude."

Smith said the "challenge of making the Kansas City Chiefs will be a great one for me. It's easy to see why the Chiefs are world champions. The overall attitude here is tremendous. Coach Stram has everyone working hard. In college, I was fortunate to have been with a winner, and it's great to be with another winner now."

Smith, weights 260 pounds, stands 6-foot-4 and lives in Long Beach, Calif. He will play with the College All-Stars in their game against the chiefs in Chicago July 31.

Flood Case Reaches 7th Inning Stretch

NEW YORK (AP) — The Curt Flood case has reached the seventh-inning stretch with possibly four more witnesses, including controversial former club owner Bill Veeck, scheduled to take the witness stand next week.

Veeck, a onetime owner of the Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox, is on the lineup card being carried about by Flood's attorneys, but at the moment there is still some question about whether he will be sent up to hit.

If Veeck were to testify, he likely would do so Wednesday, closing out the case in which Flood is charged with tampering with the integrity of the game.

The defendants' club owners called John Gahrin, their labor relations negotiator, as their 10th witness Friday.

According to the timetable established by the attorneys, baseball will call its last defense witness, an economist, when the case resumes Monday and then the Flood's lawyers will call Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players' Association, and Dick Moss, its attorney, as rebuttal witnesses.

Young Man Puts Faith In Future of Farming

LAForge— There are hundreds of young farmers who believe in farming as a way of life.

Larry Gardner, 24, who lives on a farm on route one, Matthews, four miles north of LaForge, is an example.

He and his wife, Dorothy, and their eight-month old son, John Mark, rented land from the Edward Matthews farms and began farming in 1969. He returned from Vietnam in 1968, after spending 11 months, and decided to have a farming career. His wife is a substitute teacher in the New Madrid R-1 schools. Both are active in the Kewanee Methodist church.

He was asked by Howard Woodall, Farmers Home Administration supervisor, of New Madrid county, why he wanted to farm. Young Gardner replied: "Farmers are hard hit now by operating costs, but I feel this will change in the next few years."

The young farmer with a good farming background wasn't reluctant to investing $10,800 in machinery to start farming on 450 acres, with an operating expense of $11,000.

Last year his yield on wheat was 70 and 75 bushels per acre. The former was with Blue Boy seed on 80 acres, and the latter was with Ben Hur. His corn yield was 90 bushels per acre, on 140 acres. His 58 acres of cotton and 175 acres in soybeans, averaged with the better growers in his area. He grossed $25,056 in his first year, which he thought was not bad for a starter.

He was asked by the Future Homemaker of America administrator whether he could give advice to other young farmers?

"Just don't start out like dad did, with from $75,000-$100,000 worth of machinery investment," he said "Select a family size unit, and follow all the approved farm practices you can get your hands on."

He has all of his rented farm under irrigation, of which about 160 acres belong to his father, Charles Gardner, near Blodgett.

This year his planting will be about the same as last year with one full time man to help him.

His crop, which has a good start, consists of 58 acres of cotton, 120 acres in corn, 120 acres in wheat, and 150 acres in soybeans.

STARTING HIS SECOND year of farming, Larry Gardner stands in wheat field. He planted one and one-half bushels seed per acre Oct. 1. He expects a 70-bushel per acre yield.

CORN PLANTED on April 6 by Larry Gardner, LaForge farmer, looked like this Thursday. He planted seed that should produce almost 26,000 stalks per acre.

Two Awarded Scholarships

ST. LOUIS — Two Missouri $500 awards to talented and farm youths will attend the college of agriculture at the University of Missouri in Columbia this fall on scholarships awarded by The Federal Land Bank of St. Louis. They are Stephen Searcy, route three, Liberty, and Joe Golding, route two, Aurora.

This is the 14th year the bank has made available two

George Washington had to surrender Ft. Mifflin at the Battle of Great Meadows in the French and Indian War.

Minners Move into New Home

Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Minner of route four, Sikeston, near Grant City. They purchased their lot Minner of route four, Sikeston, prior to Minner's retirement have moved into a new home from the Madison County near Grant City. Their house was Sanitorium in Edwardsville, Ill., constructed with loan funds where he was employed 16 provided by the Farmers Home years. Administration.

Bobby R. Hicks, County

Supervisor of Scott and Mississippi Counties, stated that it is the policy of the Farmers Home Administration, through their Rural Housing program, to help provide modest homes for eligible rural residents.

Various mixtures of these herbicides can be applied early in the growing season. MSMA is most often used in combination with one of the other herbicides. Surfactant is added to spray mixtures for more effective weed control.

Herban, Cotoran and MSMA can be applied to smaller cotton than Karmex, Caparol or Lorox. MSMA is added to the mixture because it controls cocklebur and annual grasses. With the exception of grasses Cotoran is generally more effective in controlling weeds than Herban.

Karmex should not be applied until cotton is 6 inches tall. At this stage of growth, Karmex is just as effective and more economical than Herban and Cotoran.

Caparol may be applied when cotton is 6 inches tall and is particularly effective for controlling prickly sida (teaweed or iron weed). Lorox should be applied until cotton plants are 15 inches tall. Lorox is effective for late season control of pigweed, prickly sida and cocklebur. Both Lorox and Caparol can be used for mid-to-late season control of prickly sida.

Herbicide oils are also effective for early season control if applied to healthy cotton and can get good coverage of the weeds. Flame cultivation is another good tool for mid and late season control of weeds.

Weed Control For Cotton

JOE H. SCOTT

Extension Agronomist PORTAGEVILLE — Cotton is emerging all over the Bootheel and in many fields weeds are also emerging reports Joe Scott, Agronomist at the Delta Center. Farmers are now confronted with the problem of controlling these weeds with postemergent herbicides and cultivation said Scott.

BENTON-Bloat is a threat over-hanging cattle and sheep when first turned out to legume forage.

Poloxalene is one of the more effective bloat preventives, but proper management is highly important. An admixture of grasses with legumes is also effective. The combination is less apt to produce bloat than legumes alone.

Delaying pasturing to mid-bloom rather than earlier is a help. So is very gradually accustoming the animals to legume pasture, letting them partly fill up on hay or silage before turning them out. Then they are not so ravenously hungry for the tender palatable forage.

A rack or stack of hay or straw readily accessible, or a swath or two of cured hay on the ground, gives them a chance to eat it and start rumen activity and thus release gases through belching.

Provide free access to salt and water at all times! Salt is important this is! A Wisconsin farm wife stated that she had lived on her farm for 38 years without a cow bloat. She said, "All that is necessary to prevent bloat is to feed cows well at all times and keep a salt box available so that cattle can get at it day and night."

Cape to Be Site of 4-H Area Session

COLUMBIA — Eleven-one-day meetings called 4-H excursions in consumer decisions will be held around the state during June, according to Miss Charlene Lindsay, extension youth specialist at the University of Missouri.

The events are planned to stimulate an awareness and commitment to become better informed and skilled consumers, Miss Lindsay said.

The locations of the meetings and the dates in June include, Cape Girardeau, June 23.

Club members 12 years of age and older and adult 4-H leaders in the home improvement, home management, and money management projects are invited to attend the excursions. Those who attend will receive consumer information about home furnishings, Miss Lindsay said.

Some of the program topics, according to Miss Alice Alexander, Extension home management specialist, will be: Choice making, buymanship, intelligent use and maintenance of purchases, and understanding factors that influence our interests as consumers.

"There is a compelling need for greater emphasis on consumer education in all 4-H home economists projects," Miss Lindsay said.

In following years, consumer decision programs are planned for 4-H project members in foods and nutrition, textiles and clothing, and other areas.

Club members interested in attending the meetings should contact their local county Extension centers.

The day's program will include a luncheon sponsored by the Sears-Roebuck Foundation.

Planning committee for the 1970 Excursion programs include Miss Lindsay, Miss Alexander, Mrs. Marjorie Frankenberg, Extension home economists, New London; and Pat Lierance, Extension family economics specialist. UMC

Thrips Show Up in Many Cotton Fields

PORTAGEVILLE — Thrips are showing up in many cotton fields of the Missouri Delta, according to Area Agricultural Extension Agent W. F. James. Thrips are tiny, long bodied insects usually greyish to black in color. They can be easily seen when knocked from the cotton plants onto a white piece of paper.

Normally, spraying to control thrips in cotton is not considered an economical practice. With later planted cotton this year, it may pay to control them.

For those who want to control thrips, the time to apply the materials is while cotton is only a few days old. Here's what to use:

One pound of toxaphene (1 1/3 pints 60 to 65% emulsifiable concentrate) per acre.

Or use 0.1 to 0.15 pound Azodrin (1/3 cup or 5 tablespoons 56% Azodrin water soluble concentrate) per acre.

Or use 0.15 pound Bidrin (1/3 cup or 5 tablespoons 80% Bidrin water soluble man, Boon commented. "When concentrate) per acre. it's too wet for other Delta growers it's too wet for us."

Or use 0.15 pound Cygon 267 (1/2 pint 96% Cygon 267 emulsifiable concentrate) per acre.

One nozzle set to spray same pests and blights, that directly over the row will usually everyone else gets. That's why give sufficient coverage.

The cotton should be checked in about a week after the spraying to see if a new crop out. We want people to see our of thrips have moved in.

Caution: All insecticides are on field day. Field day for the Delta in accordance with directions on Center will be in the fall this year, but all of the staff

Crops Planted at Research Farm

PORTAGEVILLE — Researchers at the Delta Research Center of the University of Missouri are getting their crops planted at the farm five miles east of here, at the Clarkton field, and at the Quin field. The fields at Clarkton and Quin are additional research areas which offer different soil and cropping conditions from those at the Center.

"We have the fields all prepared and we're moving along now," explains acting superintendent William "Bill" Boon. "The wet weather held us up, just like it did everyone else."

Corn is planted and up. Tomato plants have been started at the Center greenhouses and set out. Sugarbeets are up and cultivated.

Cotton test plots were being planted last week and all activities are going at full speed and when weather permits.

"We don't have any special arrangements with the weather man," Boon commented. "When it's too wet for other Delta growers it's too wet for us."

"It's the same with all the croppings practices. We share the same breaks and setbacks, that directly over the row will usually everyone else gets. That's why give sufficient coverage."

"Our welcome mat is always checked in about a week after the spraying to see if a new crop out. We want people to see our of thrips have moved in."

Field day for the Delta in accordance with directions on Center will be in the fall this year, but all of the staff members-- agronomists, horticulturists, entomologists, the various specialists-- work throughout the season.

"If you're curious about our crops and practices or if you have a problem we might help with, stop in and see us. That's what we're here for," Boon emphasizes.

Most activity at the center this summer will be a continuation of last year's. One new project is a study of cotton planted in narrow rows. In the research, 80-inch wide beds will get two 38-inch rows (usual spacing) or three spaced 30 inches apart, four spaced 20 inches apart, or even five spaced 14 inches apart.

The narrow row cotton should give better weed control and a shorter season of maturity. Some varieties do well in narrow rows, others don't. This will be tested, too, both in loam and gumbo soils.

"It may be," Boon explains, "that we can develop varieties or practices that will simplify the production and harvesting of cotton. If all of the bolls could ripen at the same time, cotton harvest would be a once-over operation."

In an effort to reduce tillage and preparation time and costs, soybeans, corn and cotton are being planted with a no-til planter in rye. This research is being done at both the Delta Center and the Clarkton Field.

The rye holds the blow sand and reduces other problems, Boon explains, then it is killed with spray after the beans, corn, or cotton are established and up.

"We hope growers will stop in to see this research," Boon adds.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Nail Polish Brings Sheen

Back to Pearl Buttons

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Mrs. E. D. wanted to know how she could bring back the sheen to pearl buttons that have become dull from laundering. I suggest clear nail polish. If that makes them too glossy, try the frosty clear, which might look better. They can be retouched any time it is needed.

I think Irma had a good idea for making candles fit in the holders but we would hesitate about letting the wax that melts off run down the drain. It immediately hardens when reaching the inside of the cold drain, even when flushed with hot water.—ESTHER

Thanks for the reminder, Esther. A cloth or paper towel could be put over the drain to catch the wax and then both removed and put in the trash can.—POLLY

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—While attending a kitchen shower for a bride-to-be, one of the guests presented an attractive "corsage" made of various kitchen utensils. Among them were several scouring pads made from colorful plastic onion bags. I would like to know how to make these scouring pads and such corsages, too.—MRS. D. G.

DEAR POLLY—After the family has gone to bed, I like to "pick up" the cluttered living room so when the sun comes up I will have at least one straight room.

After washing any snack trays, carrying out the pop bottles and newspapers, I was always faced with full ash trays, which I was afraid to empty. So I always left them. One night, I decided I could not bear to smell the stale contents, so I took them to the kitchen and looked around to see how I could safely dispose of them. I dumped all the contents of the ash trays in the center of a piece of aluminum foil, folded it up to make a neat, air-tight package, then squeezed this in my hand. No more worrying! I washed the ash trays and went to bed with a clear mind.—JUDY

DEAR JUDY—A dash of baking soda over the ashes and cigarette butts would be a bit of double insurance if you are not too sure about any remaining sparks. Why not ask

each one in the family to carry his own tray and bottle back to the kitchen before taking off for bed—not much for them to do and would save you some steps?—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—While sewing on the machine, I discovered that the material was being pulled. I sharpened my old needle with an emery board, just as though I was sharpening a pencil, and the needle worked like new.—G. C. G.

Rate Raise Granted to Light Co.

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Public Service Commission today granted Kansas City Power and Light Co. a 3 per cent increase in rates, enough to boost annual revenues by an estimated $2,537,539.

The electric power utility asked last July for a rate hike that would have brought in about $5.8 million more a year than present rates.

The commission voted 4-1 for the decision. Commissioner Howard Elliott Jr. dissented because, he said, the commission made two accounting adjustments that should not have been made.

The commission figured the approved rate hike would give the firm a net return of 6.76 per cent, based on a fair value of the plant of $325,500,000.

The utility has not had a rate hike since 1963 but since then has reduced rates two times. This time it asked for the increase because of sharply increased costs of operation. It serves customers in Jackson, Carroll, Cass, Chariton, Clay, Howard, Lafayette, Mercer, Pettis, Platte, Randolph and Saline counties.

Kansas City, Armo Steel Corp., and the federal government in behalf of the Atomic Energy Commission opposed the full increase the utility requested.

Hospital Smoking Criticized

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Hospitals should not permit smoking anywhere on the premises, an official of Lung Physicians Against Air Pollution said Friday.

Dr. I. J. Flance, a member of the group's Executive Committee, referred to tobacco smoking as personal pollution, which he said plays a role in over all pollution and is something the individual can do something about.

"We're going to try to convince doctors and hospitals to get rid of cigarette smoking in hospitals, and certainly not be an agent for the sale of tobacco within hospitals," Flance said.

Flance, an assistant professor of clinical medicine at Washington University, made his remarks in a talk to medical school alumni.

Nixon Must Block Cambodian Coast

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)

Difficult as the decision may be, President Nixon will almost certainly be forced into one additional daring step if his Cambodian gamble is to succeed.

He must inevitably openly or covertly blockade the south Cambodian coast from Sihanouville east to the South Vietnam border.

Otherwise, it is unlikely that Nixon will be able to buy the six months respite his destruction of North Vietnam's bases in Cambodia is intended to purchase.

Even with the monsoons this summer, there is no reason why the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese cannot resupply themselves with some dispatch if they can ship what they need by sea to the southern Cambodian coast, then move it overland through eastern Cambodia to new supply dumps along the South Vietnamese border.

A selective sea blockade of the southern Cambodian coast need not involve American crews. It can be carried out with quite small, well-armed vessels. These can be operated by South Vietnamese, though possibly some American advisers will be required.

Since the new government in Cambodia closed the port of Sihanouville to Communist arms shipments a short time back, North Vietnamese troops have been making determined efforts to open a direct supply route to the sea on a line somewhere between Sihanouville and Cambodia's eastern border with South Vietnam.

The exact portion of the coast they wish to occupy is not clear at this writing.

It has been estimated that until recent weeks, some 75 per cent of the arms and military supplies (other than food) the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese require for their operations south of Saigon came in through Sihanouville.

Most North Vietnamese-Viet Cong operations in South Vietnam north of Saigon are reportedly supplied through the northern supply routes that wind through Laos by way of the Ho Chi Minh trails. American military men estimate, correctly or incorrectly, that the monsoons in June, July, August and early September will take the edge off a major build-up from that direction until this fall.

That leaves the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) between North and South Vietnam, through which the Communists brought considerable tonnage at one time. This route must be kept closed also if the Cambodian strikes are to achieve the cutoff in supplies Nixon wants.

The crucial necessity of keeping the DMZ closed as noted above is the grim reality behind Defense Secretary Laird's warning to Hanoi that he would recommend bombing the north if the Zone was used for major infiltrations.

Southern Baptist Convention Begins

DENVER (AP) — With a plea for unity from its president, the big Southern Baptist Convention today began its annual working sessions, facing issues that threatened to explode into conflict.

Under fire were the denomination's social action agency, and recent publications offering modern critical analysis of some passages of the Bible.

There also was a call for accepting inter-racial marriage, an unusual note in the Southern Baptist denomination whose 11.5 million members spread throughout the nation make it the largest Protestant body in the United States.

Christians "need to be courageously seek persons of other races to mixed with—and to marry," the Rev. Dr. R. Lofton Hudson, director of a counseling center in Kansas City, told denominational educators.

Gasps were heard in the audience. The convention's president, the Rev. Dr. W. A. Criswell of Dallas, opened the meeting Monday night with an appeal for an end to dissent. But he called for conformity to statements of doctrine.

"There will be no peace to us and no offer of hope to us if we do not believe in the Christian Life doctrinal basis for the gospel we preach," he told the approximately 12,000 Atlanta last fall involving a "messengers" from local congregations.

They gave him standing ovations. Situation ethics hold that morals are not always absolute, but that circumstances may make violations of moral codes such as lying, stealing and killing the right thing to do, in the particular situation.

"When we cease to believe in Baptist doctrines, we are no longer Baptists," he said. "We have become something else." His previous insistence on belief in the infallibility of the Bible recently led two Baptist professors to quit their University of Richmond teaching posts, and the denomination. Other ferment has arisen on the issue. Baptist traditionally have stressed individual liberty of conscience and freedom from fixed creeds.

However, Southern Baptist statements of faith, of 1925 and 1963, declare that the Bible "has God for its author" and "truth without any mixture of error, for its matter."

Several Baptist professors have pointed out that the statement also makes clear it is not to be imposed as any required test of faith.

"Sometimes we are told that the cardinal doctrine of the Baptist faith is soul liberty, freedom of conscience, the right to believe anything," Dr. Criswell said. He decried this view as the same as that held by infidels.

Meanwhile, a group called the "Affirming the Bible Conference" took shape to press for tighter controls to curb alleged "liberal influences" appearing in denominational literature.

A particular target was a newly published Broadman Bible Commentary, attacked for its so-called "liberal stance on interpretation of Genesis."

Whitten indicated continued support of ACP during testimony in March which was made public on Wednesday.

Among other things, Whitten told an Agriculture Department witness, ACP funds help carry out development and flood-prevention projects supervised by the U. R. Soil Conservation Service.

"If the ACP program is abolished for next year," Whitten said, "it would mean that 870 Soil Conservation technicians would be eliminated with the resulting effect on carrying out the Soil Conservation Service operation and carrying out the watershed programs."

Whitten made his comments to Kenneth E. Frick, administrator of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service which handles ACP allocations.

Frick, however, appeared reluctant to defend the Nixon's attempt at Washington out ACP. Part of the testimony included: Frick: "Well, on ACP, it just comes down to other things with a higher priority that took place."

Whitten: "In your judgment, or in the Budget Bureau judgment?" Frick: "In their judgment."

Under further questioning, Frick told Whitten the Agriculture Department had recommended ACP be retained but was overridden by President Nixon's budget bureau.

Whitten has taken a dim view of administration attempts to trim or eliminate ACP, which has provided the main financial assistance for conservation-minded farmers since the mid-1930s.

"If the ACP program is abolished for next year," Whitten said, "it would mean that 870 Soil Conservation technicians would be eliminated with the resulting effect on carrying out the Soil Conservation Service operation and carrying out the watershed programs."

Whitten made his comments to Kenneth E. Frick, administrator of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service which handles ACP allocations.

Frick, however, appeared reluctant to defend the Nixon's attempt at Washington out ACP. Part of the testimony included: Frick: "Well, on ACP, it just comes down to other things with a higher priority that took place."

Whitten: "In your judgment, or in the Budget Bureau judgment?" Frick: "In their judgment."

Under further questioning, Frick told Whitten the Agriculture Department had recommended ACP be retained but was overridden by President Nixon's budget bureau.

Whitten has taken a dim view of administration attempts to trim or eliminate ACP, which has provided the main financial assistance for conservation-minded farmers since the mid-1930s.

Whitten indicated continued support of ACP during testimony in March which was made public on Wednesday.

Among other things, Whitten told an Agriculture Department witness, ACP funds help carry out development and flood-prevention projects supervised by the U. R. Soil Conservation Service.

Scarred Program May Get Lift in Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The scared but lively Agricultural Conservation Program which helps farmers bear costs for land improvements may get a new lease on life in an appropriations bill scheduled today in Congress.

The ACP has been a target for budget cutters through several administrations. In 1969 and again this year, Nixon budget experts have recommended phasing out the program which costs around $200 million annually — in cost-sharing benefits to farmers.

But Congress, led by Rep. Jamie L. Whitten, D-Miss., traditionally has restored ACP funds to keep the popular program operating. Whitten is chairman of the agriculture appropriations subcommittee which was scheduled to report today its bill for 1970-71 Agriculture Department financing.

Whitten has taken a dim view of administration attempts to trim or eliminate ACP, which has provided the main financial assistance for conservation-minded farmers since the mid-1930s.

$348,000 Month Payout in County

CAPE GIRARDEAU — retired, disabled, or deceased Social security benefits paid to workers who became disabled before they reached 18 and who $348,000 a month as 1969 will probably never be able to go ended, Clifford Forsee, social security district manager, supporting.

Another group of youthful social security beneficiaries are those who are receiving social security benefits as disabled workers. Under a 1967 change in the law, disability benefits can be paid to a younger person who becomes disabled for work even if he has less than five years of work under social security.

A benefit increase, signed into law by President Nixon Dec. 30 has since raised the monthly rate of payment by 15 per cent for the 4,964 social security beneficiaries in the County, Forsee noted.

Of the social security beneficiaries living in the county, 2,987 are retired workers and their dependents. Another 1,224 are receiving benefits as the survivors of workers who have died, and 753 are getting benefits as disabled workers or the dependents of disabled workers.

Based upon the 1970 census figures, about 16%, or one person in a little over six, are receiving social security benefits in the county.

Forsee pointed out that although the majority of social security beneficiaries are older people, about one out of every four is under 60.

In Missouri, 129,000 people under 60 are collecting social security payments each month. The 72,200, who are under 18, are receiving payments because a working father or mother has died or is getting social security disability or retirement benefits.

Of the 10,360 who are 18 through 21 most are getting students' benefits under a provision which permits the continuation of a child's benefits past his or her 18th birthday, and up to 22 if he or she is attending school full time.

But in this 18 to 22 age group, Forsee said, are some other types of beneficiaries, while illustrating the broad family protection that is provided working people of all ages under the social security program.

Doves' Myopia on Hanoi Treachery

By BRUCE BISSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)

Possibly the doves would have had a great deal more impact on the Vietnam war if they had chosen to view Hanoi through the same sharp lens they turned on us and on various Saigon governments.

But, from the outset, too many leading doves have made themselves masters of the double standard. By one means or another, including the heavy emphasis of silence, they have conveyed the impression that the Reds in Hanoi are a benign lot, doing the people's will at home and lending a friendly hand to an oppressed people in South Vietnam.

One of the doves' favorite themes is that, as practiced by the late Ho Chi Minh and his successors, communism is nothing but Vietnamese nationalism and that our entry into the fray is a blind man's intervention tending only to impede a natural surge toward nationalism.

The nationalism of the Vietnamese is real enough. But I checked again on Hanoi's role in its post-World War II upsurge. The historians agree that in 1945-46, just before Ho sent his so-called Viet Minh forces into an eight-year war with the French in Indochina, he callously wiped out every nationalist rival he could find.

Many key doves like to say that North and South Vietnam are "really one country," so why should anybody be mixing in their affairs for any reason whatsoever?

The fact is, for most of 300 years Vietnam was divided in either halves or thirds. For a time, centuries ago, there were Chinese-style walls separating two Vietnamese regions on a line not far above the present border at the 17th Parallel.

Regional differences are a major force in Vietnam. Most of the "first Indochina war" against the French was fought by the Viet Minh in the north, with the south largely a supplier.

For hundred of years, the Vietnamese of the Red River delta around Hanoi have been highly aggressive. They once swallowed up much of Laos and Cambodia, and it is they who colonized South Vietnam by wiping out the ancient Champa (Indian-descendant) empire.

Those who settled in the south grew to be far different from their restless northern brothers, and the enmity between north and south is deep.

The big doves love to describe our fighting in Vietnam as "genocide." They are peculiarly mute when looking at the real genocide the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong have visited upon thousands of South Vietnamese. They have wiped out a whole class (chiefs, teachers, etc.) of able, irreplaceable South Vietnamese leaders—real or potential. The Hanoi-VG flags are drenched in the blood of innocents, and young Americans who wave them are cruelly color-blind.

Full recital of Hanoi's sins would make a brutal book. Why go on? The doves proclaim noble motives, yet their double vision has always clouded them. Dwelling heavily on our errors, they have disfigured themselves beyond all credibility as witnesses. Their "humanity" is fiction.

London Has a See-Through Candidate

LONDON (AP) — On the screen she is the madam of a brothel dressed in a see-through nightie. On the streets she is a candidate for the House of Commons.

"Disgusting," said some women voters in South Lewisham, where Diane Hart, actress-turned-politician, is running as an independent in the June 18 election.

"Great," said truck driver Ken Bridger. "She brings a little color to the election."

Miss Hart appears in the film "Two Women" sitting in bed with Joanna Lumley, who is naked from the waist up. Miss Lumley plays a prostitute.

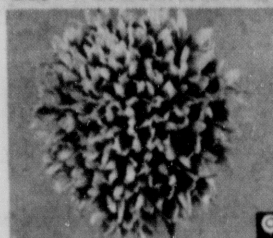

"I was a bit worried about the picture," Miss Hart admitted.

Miss art, who has formed a pressure group to get more women into Parliament, added: "I can't see that revealing so much of myself should upset my constituents."

"I am an intelligent woman doing a job as other people are, so I hope the voters will view this senselessly."

GAY GAILLARDIAS

Fiesta is the name of this gaillardia which has smoky-red petals, tipped yellow.

Gaillardias are known for the profusion of flowers they produce and for the length of time over which they continue to bloom. "All summer long" is not an idle phrase when applied to these plants.

There are both annual and perennial gaillardias, both equally easy to grow from seeds sown where the plants are to bloom.

Gaillardias prefer light, open soil and must have both sun and air. With these conditions met, they'll provide you with a constant show of blossoms for cutting or to make your garden gay.

Single-flowered gaillardias have just one row of petals but double ones are rounded heads filled with petals and are generally more popular with gardeners.

While gaillardia flowers normally are 2 1/2 to 3 inches across, those of some tetraploid varieties are 4 inches in diameter.

Flower colors are various shades of yellow to orange and a series of off-reds, brick claret and "smoky." They combine well with most other flower colors—another point in their favor.

Keep on serving. Keep on learning.

A man who serves in the U.S. Army Reserve is helping more than his Country. He's also helping himself. By keeping sharp for his civilian career through on-the-job training. By giving himself the chance to further that career through courses at Army Reserve Schools. It pays to join. It pays to stay.

THE U.S. ARMY RESERVE

NOSE TO NOSE, almost. Strategically placed glass partition separates a small visitor from an inquisitive turtle at a Nassau aquarium in the Bahamas.

POWER through love may be symbolized by University of Rhode Island student clutching kitten with one hand while other is raised in familiar salute.

Paul Bunyan is a mythical hero of huge dimensions, who "accomplished" many fantastic tasks. During the 1920s, James Stevens' stories popularized the lumberman as a giant industrialist. The World Almanac says Bunyan became a national symbol for bigness, strength, ingenuity and exaggeration that reflected America's motivation to achieve insurmountable tasks.

THE CITY OF SIKESTON, MISSOURI

Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of 1 1/2 inch hotmix asphaltic pavement on 6 inch soil cement base with concrete curb and gutters on Mitchell Street from Malone to Garwood Avenues in accordance with the plans and specifications on file in the office of the City Clerk in Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: SECTION 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. SECTION 2: That the nature and scope of the improvement shall consist of furnishing all cost, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. SECTION 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $4.90 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and lots of land abutting the improvement. SECTION 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinance of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. SECTION 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. SECTION 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 1st day of June, 1970. Approved: Taylor Noel Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk. 64-84-90

News Briefs Nixon Personally Wishes Hupe Well Cambodians Blunt Heavy Communist-Led Attack

$1.8 Billion to Bomber

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon awarded contracts totaling nearly $1.8 billion Friday toward development of the B1, a strategic bomber to replace the B52. The B1 is designed to sweep in under enemy radar and fire nuclear-tipped missiles. North American Rockwell Corp. and General Electric were given the contracts to design, develop and test the plane.

Ky Returns from Cambodia

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky returned here today from a two-day official visit to Cambodia, warning that the allies' Cambodian operation could become a "failure in the future" if the enemy is allowed to return to its former border sanctuaries.

"If we are just satisfied with the results we have gotten until now and we stop our move and go back and sleep and discuss politics, then the enemy will come back in a few months," Ky told newsmen.

$2.2 Million to Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has disbursed $2.2 million to school districts with a high proportion of students whose parents are federal employees.

The stopgap aid was handed out Friday to 10 districts in particular financial straits which had threatened to end the school year early, exclude children of federal employees or charge tuition.

The districts are called impacted areas and include such cities as Bellevue, Neb., and Grand Forks, Neb., two cities with large military installations nearby.

The 10 districts are among hundreds adversely affected by a congressional restriction on the aid. They are receiving only 77 per cent of their entitled money, based on a federal formula. Last year they got 90 per cent.

U.S. Navy Denies

Spy Ship Sank

TOKYO (AP) — North Korea claims it sank a "heavily armed" U.S. spy ship in the Yellow Sea, but the U.S. Navy has denied the charge, saying it has no ships operating in the area.

South Korea announced Friday that one of its vessels, on a routine mission to prevent South Korean fishing boats from straying north of the border, was attacked by two North Korean patrol boats and towed off toward the north. North Korea issued its claim later in the day, and there was speculation the two Korean governments were referring to the same incident.

North Korea's official Korean Central News Agency said an American spy ship "intruded deep into the coastal waters" about 11:30 p.m. Friday. "Officers and men of the navy of the Korean People's army instantly sent to the bottom of the sea the enemy's armed spy ship," the broadcast said.

The Navy reported in a statement issued in Washington: "The U.S. Navy had no ships of any kind operating in that area."

The North Korean dispatch said the ship was sunk off Haeju, about 50 miles south of Pyongyang, the North Korean capital.

The South Korean Defense Ministry said its boat was accosted by two North Korean vessels just south of the seaward extension of the Demilitarized Zone, about 70 miles west of the South Korean capital of Seoul.

The location given by the North Koreans would put the ship slightly north of the DMZ, and that given by the South Koreans would put it south of the line.

South Korean Brig. Gen. called the seizure a "premeditated attack." He did not say whether the ship returned or if there were casualties. There was no word on the condition of the crew.

But the English-language Korea Times reported without attribution that the South Korean boat returned fire with a 50mm machine gun until its engines stalled. The paper said it was believed the South Korean boat suffered heavy damage and that there were casualties among her crew.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even President Nixon had to obey doctor's orders and settle for an intermediary when he tried to telephone the pilot wounded in Thursday's bizarre hijacking.

Capt. Dale C. Hupe, shot once in the abdomen during a fight for the hijacker's gun in the cockpit of the Trans World Airlines jet, could not accept Nixon's call Friday afternoon. He was in good condition in Fairfax Hospital in nearby Virginia, but was recovering from three hours of surgery.

Nurse Mary Jane Mastorovich told Nixon Hupe could not be disturbed and took the President's message.

"I served with Captain Hupe on Guadalcanal during World War II and I would like for you to express my personal best wishes to him and that I wish him a speedy recovery. He went through the entire war without a scratch," the nurse related Nixon said. "It's too bad he had to be injured now this way."

Nixon's and Hupe's service together came in the South Pacific when Nixon was a lieutenant junior grade on Guadalcanal for the South Pacific Air Transport Command.

Marine Capt. Hupe flew numerous missions for the command.

Sihanouk Says Red China to Help Him

PARIS (AP) — Prince Norodom Sihanouk said today Mao Tse-tung has promised Red Chinese arms and financial backing to topple the Cambodian government that ousted him in March.

In an interview recorded in Peking by the French-owned Radio Luxembourg, Sihanouk expressed confidence of victory but showed concern because the Soviet Union has not recognized his exile government.

His interviewer, Ahmed Miske, said Sihanouk and his family lived in a large residence in a section of Peking reserved for high foreign dignitaries.

"Chairman Mao Tse-tung was kind enough to receive me," Sihanouk said. "He told me, 'We will lend you the money you need for your diplomacy and your affairs of state. But where arms are concerned, we are not in the habit of playing the role of arms merchants. We cannot sell you any arms. We will give them to you. And their transportation (to Cambodia) will also be free of charge.'"

With the help of Chinese aid, Sihanouk added: "We hope to recover Phnom Penh in the not too distant future. It is a question of holding out for one year, two years, three years at the most. We can repay the loan after the victory."

Sihanouk made no reference to "Chinese people's volunteers," which Chau Seng, one of his ministers, said in Paris Friday might be deployed against the Americans and South Vietnamese in Cambodia.

Set-Aside Proposal Defeated

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Congressman Bill D. Burlison of Missouri's 10th congressional district, and a member of the house committee on agriculture, today claimed a significant victory in the house agriculture committee. The administration set-aside proposal providing for removal of the farm economy from the parity concept and adding a requirement that the farmer take land out of production without compensation was defeated before the full agriculture committee by a vote of 17 to 14. Some weeks ago the same proposal was passed in subcommittee 9 to 8.

In discussing the administration program in

Executive Committee hearing with Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butte on May 12, 1970, Burlison had commented with respect to the "set-aside," "I do not seem to be able to get anybody on the Committee, or in the Department that is willing to face up to this, and I would like to know if there is some factor here that I cannot see, and I have not been able to see, up to this point?" Burlison said Secretary Hardin referred his comment to his Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, Clarence Palmy, who in essence admitted that the administration program provided for less farm income than under the present program.

Israelis, Arabs Mark Anniversary with Raids

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Israelis and Arabs marked the third anniversary of the six-day Middle East war with a new round of raids—the Israelis in the air, Arab commandos on the ground.

Israeli warplanes assaulted Egyptian military targets along the Suez Canal for 11 hours Friday and then returned at night for another 3 1/2 hours.

The military command in Tel Aviv said the heavy bombing was aimed at reducing Israeli casualties along the waterway and preventing an Egyptian buildup.

Arab guerrillas staged sporadic border raids Friday and resumed them today, firing rockets from Lebanon into the Kiryat Shomona area of Upper Galilee, the Tel Aviv command said.

In six days the Israelis have hit Egyptian canal targets for about 60 hours, in line with the new strategy announced Friday by Lt. Gen. Haim Bar-Lev, Israeli chief of staff, in an anniversary statement.

Bar-Lev said that Israeli forces have shifted from a policy of retaliation to "continuous military activity" in order to

Soviet Naval Buildup in Indian Ocean Presses U.S.

PORT SWETTENHAM, Malaysia (AP) — The Soviet naval buildup in the Indian Ocean is pressing the United States into a similar expansion, the commander of the U.S. 7th Fleet said today.

"The Soviets have been sending their units to the Indian Ocean in considerable numbers recently," Vice Adm. Maurice F. Weisner told newsmen aboard his flagship, the guided missile light cruiser Oklahoma City.

"We feel it would be desirable for the United States to have a presence in the Indian Ocean," he added, "and it would—I would say—be related to what the Soviets are doing there too."

He said he hoped for greater freedom with the end of the U.S. involvement in Vietnam so the U.S. naval vessels could be committed to the Indian Ocean in numbers "more than we have recently had."

Recent worldwide Soviet military exercises saw Soviet naval vessels in the region "in considerable numbers," he said. Weisner stressed that his desire to have more U.S. ships in the Indian Ocean did not signal a new U.S. military policy. "To properly discharge my responsibilities in the various parts of the world it would be desirable to have my ships in those areas," he said.

The 7th Fleet's area of responsibility covers more than 30 million square miles of the Western Pacific, from Guam to the central Indian Ocean.

Weisner commands some 150 ships, 500 aircraft and 65,000 men.

The Oklahoma City is paying a good visit to Malaysia.

Zone Captains To Talk Rules For Recount

Zone captains for a recount of Sikeston residents will meet Tuesday at the city administration building to go over rules to be followed by the volunteer enumerators.

The recount follows on the heels of the federal census which showed Sikeston gaining only 700 residents during the past decade. Population was estimated at 14,488.

Tuesday's meeting will begin at 7 p.m.

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Cambodian tanks and infantry blunted a heavy Communist-led attack today on the provincial capital of Siem Reap, four miles south of the ancient Cambodian capital of Angkor Wat.

A responsible military source said the enemy troops were withdrawing toward Angkor Wat, the site of historic ruins from the ancient Cambodian empire.

The fighting centered around the provincial airport two miles northwest of Siem Reap. The informant said enemy forces had been cleared from the airport but that he did not know whether it had reopened. It closed down after sporadic fighting Friday.

Reports from Siem Reap indicated that street fighting had died down but that some North Vietnamese and Viet Cong units were still in the town.

Some sources said Siem Reap is defended by a large Cambodian force and that the enemy attack apparently was aimed more at embarrassing the Phnom Penh government than at capturing and holding the territory. A big enemy victory near Angkor Wat would receive publicity because of the name of the ancient capital.

Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops also kept up their pressure today in other parts of Cambodia, and spokesmen in Phnom Penh said the current offensive is the enemy's largest and most widespread since U.S. and South Vietnamese troops entered the country's eastern provinces a month ago.

The enemy kept up heavy pressure on Kompong Cham, a provincial capital 80 miles north of Phnom Penh. The source in Phnom Penh said enemy troops had seized control of Highway 6 between the Cambodian capital and Kompong Cham and were barring even civilian traffic from the road.

This, the informant said, was only one of many indicators of the steadily deteriorating military situation in Cambodia.

Aid from United States Continues in Peru

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Aid from the United States and other countries continued to pour into earthquake-devastated Peru today amid new estimates that the death count could reach 50,000 or more.

The United States dispatched the helicopter carrier Guam with 14 choppers aboard to help ferry supplies into the stricken Huaylas canyon and carry out residents injured in the massive quake Sunday.

Unemployment Reaches 5 Per Cent in May

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five per cent of the nation's labor force was unemployed in May, the highest monthly rate since 1965, the Labor Department announced Friday.

The 5 per cent jobless figure was up from 4.8 per cent in April and 3.5 per cent last December and brings the total number of unemployed in the United States to 4.1 million, based on a seasonal adjustment that in the past has figured on an increase in employment in May.

Belcher said U.S. aid would top the $1 million mark by today.

Belcher also reported that an American mining company, Cerro de Pasco Corp., had succeeded in opening a circuitous "back door" route to the shattered valley in north-central Peru, and that two other American firms were working on a more direct route from coastal areas to the inland region.

The Canadian government sent six transport planes to help drop supplies into the valley.

Peru's director of information, Augusto Zimmerman, said he could not confirm new estimates of 50,000 dead, cabled to U.N. headquarters from a

Bus Routes for Summer Announced

NEW MADRID — Bus routes and staff have been announced for the summer school program for grades one through eight beginning Monday at the high school, highway 61 north.

Glenn Dyke, director of the program, said three buses will be used to transport students.

Some adjustments may be made in the routes but the schedule for the first day is bus one leaves New Madrid and picks up students along highway 61 north to oil mill, then west from oil mill to first ditch road, up first ditch road to Kewanee, from Kewanee south down highway 61 to high school.

Bus two leaves Kewanee and travels east through LaForge to Barnes Ridge, from Barnes Ridge back through Cedar Tree Lane to Bruen Fairie and O'Bannon School to the high school.

Bus three leaves junior high building on Scott street, stops at court house and North Main elementary school and on to high school. It may be necessary for this bus to make two runs.

The daily program will run from 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Lunch will be served from noon to 12:30 p.m. and students will be transported home.

Personnel for the program includes Janis Brown, first grade reading; Fern White, second grade reading; Madge Utterback, third grade reading; Charlotte Bollinger, fourth grade reading; Travis Ellis, fifth grade reading; Catherine L. Moore, sixth grade reading; Louise Avery, seventh grade reading and math; and Peggy Thompson, eighth grade reading.

Frank Medling, second grade math; Robert Raspberry, third grade math; William Tollison, fourth grade math; Eugene Watson, fifth grade math; John Allen, sixth grade math; and Jim Mauk, eighth grade math.

Bill Glaus, crafts; Carroll Compton, playground director; Helen Boone, nurse; Louis Hunt, counselor.

Mrs. Ira Pearson, Mrs. Lester Davis, and Mrs. Jim Hall, cooks; Lena Hampton, Martha Riley, Harriet Porter, Mary Rita Phillips, Rena Andrews, Lorene Higginson, Deloris Ellis and Pansy Beaher, classroom aides.

Bus drivers will rotate during the program.

The bill was considered necessary after Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth held that present law does not permit a fourth distribution of state aid in a single year. The law specifies three allotments in September, December and March.

But the state didn't have enough money on hand last March to meet the full allotment so Gov. Warren E. Hearnes promised a later distribution of about $8.5 million. The attorney general's opinion stopped that until the law can be changed.

Smoke Damage

Three Fined
CHARLESTON — In city court this morning, James Willis, 49, of Charleston was charged with common assault and fined $20; Brenda Kay Stanback, 21, of Charleston and Bobby Joe Johnson, 21, of Cairo, were each fined $15 for disturbing the peace by fighting.

Richardson, 49, came to Washington with the Nixon administration last year as the top State Department official under Secretary William P. Rogers.

A Republican, he was lieutenant governor of Massachusetts in 1965-67 and attorney general of that state prior to his taking the State Department assignment in 1969.

During the administration of President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Richardson served at HEW as an assistant secretary in 1957-59. The Tribune said in its story, published in today's final edition that Nixon was expected to announce today that Finch would leave the Cabinet to become the President's top aide.

Head Start Workshop Tuesday

PORTAGEVILLE — Pre-service training for the 1970 Delta Area Head Start summer program will be held Tuesday at the University of Missouri extension and research center. Speakers for the one day workshop include Dr. Jack Littleton, superintendent of schools for Senath-Hornersville; Dr. Richard Cravens, state division of mental diseases; Dwight Rieman, associate professor of Social Work University of Missouri; C. B. Huber, executive director of DAREC; B. W. Harrison, area extension director.

Delta Area Head Start will operate 21 centers in the county area with a total enrollment of 1,000 children. There will be approximately 230 employees in Head Start for the summer program.

The summer program will run from June 15 to July 31. Each center will follow a curriculum of pre-school readiness. All children will receive a comprehensive medical and dental examination with follow-up treatment when necessary. In addition a snack will be served daily as part of the nutrition aid program.

Two Hurt When Cycles Collide

A motorbike and a bicycle collided Friday night on Murray Lane near the Montgomery street intersection, police reported.

The two riders were injured. William A. Paxton, 42, William Street, was admitted to the Missouri Delta Community Hospital with a fractured arm.

Mark Dollis, 14, son of Tom Dollar, 1013 Davis Boulevard, suffered back and leg injuries.

that some troops from Thailand would be assigned there.

Communist-led forces were also reported building up their strength in the area of Kompong Speu, another provincial capital 27 miles west of Phnom Penh. A military spokesman said North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops had overrun Am Leang, a district capital in Kompong Speu Province 35 miles northwest of Phnom Penh.

Officials in Phnom Penh indicated that it was too early to evaluate the enemy threat in Kompong Speu, but said the mounting activity there indicated that North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces were moving west away from the American and South Vietnamese thrust into Cambodia's eastern provinces.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported a battle near Kampot, a Cambodian city 17 miles north of the Vietnam border on the Gulf of Siam. South Vietnamese and U.S. troops have been conducting a joint operation

there in search of enemy supply caches.

The U.S. Command also reported the loss of two other helicopters. A light observation ship was shot down northeast of the A Shau valley, in South Vietnam, killing the two crewmen, and a U.S. Marine aircraft was downed Thursday in the Southern Laos panhandle with the loss of one man killed and four wounded.

The sharpest ground engagement reported in South Vietnam was in the northern Mekong Delta, where South Vietnamese infantrymen clashed with Viet Cong forces 54 miles southwest of Saigon. The government troops killed 17 of the enemy and captured seven. South Vietnamese losses were 14 killed and 40 wounded, military sources said.

Prince Norodom Sihanouk, Cambodia's ousted chief of state, broadcast a "message to the American people" today imploring them to force President Nixon to withdraw all U.S. and South Vietnamese and Thai troops from Cambodia.

Danforth Gives Views on School Tax

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth has held a school tax levy is good only for the period the voters approved. After that it reverts to the constitutional maximum of $1.25.

Rep. Harlan A. Gould, R-Kirkwood, raised the question and asked for a quick answer because the Kirkwood R-7 District has a levy election coming up June 16.

He said the present levy for school purposes is $4.47 and get a two-thirds vote, the levy voters have been told that if they turn down the levy increase proposed for the June 16 election the tax will stay at that rate.

Danforth's opinion noted that the 1965 constitution says a levy voted above the rate of 1.25 per $100 assessed valuation is good only for the period for which it was voted. In the Kirkwood case, the voters authorized a one-year increase of $3.22 above the $1.25 constitutional limit.

Therefore, if the June 16 levy proposal is rejected and fails to get a two-thirds vote, the levy would revert to $1.25, not $4.47.

Nixon Appoints Richardson

WASHINGTON (AP) — January 1969.

President Nixon was reported today to be planning to appoint Elliot L. Richardson, currently under-secretary of state, as his new secretary of health, education and welfare, succeeding Robert Finch.

Earlier, the Chicago Tribune reported that Finch would be moving from the HEW post to the White House as a top staff aide to Nixon.

Richardson, 49, came to Washington with the Nixon administration last year as the top State Department official under Secretary William P. Rogers.

A Republican, he was lieutenant governor of Massachusetts in 1965-67 and attorney general of that state prior to his taking the State Department assignment in 1969.

Senate-House Committee Quiet on Any Decisions

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — To stay right up to the constitutional deadline Sunday, the Senate majority leader, Sen. A. B. B. Vanlandingham, D-Columbia, said he hoped the session's work can be finished sometime Friday, June 12.

A House committee is expected to act early in the week on a Senate-passed emergency bill to allow a fourth allotment of school aid money both this year and next. That would permit state aid of at least $234 million each year.

House leaders told members to come back Monday prepared

Saturday, June 6, 1970 — Bill Bailey calls and says he won't be home.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

Overheard at the Coffee Table: "Next to being shot at and missed, nothing really is quite as satisfying as an income tax refund."

LET'S HOPE THEY GOT THE MESSAGE

A small handful of "doves" in Washington have claimed that they were "surprised" and "confused" by our Cambodian action. There is no reason why they should be. In a major policy speech on Vietnam on November 3, 1969, which was heard and read by millions of Americans, the President announced our policy of gradual withdrawal, and the reduction of our forces by 60,000 men before the end of 1969. (Over 100,000 have now been withdrawn). But the President also enunciated a very clear, and in our opinion unmistakable warning. He said:

"Along with this optimistic estimate, I must—in all candor—leave one note of caution... I want the record to be completely clear on one point... I want to be sure there is no misunderstanding on the part of the enemy... 'We have noted the reduced level of infiltration and the reduction of our casualties and are basing our withdrawal decisions partially on those factors.'

"Hanoi could make no greater mistake than to assume that an increase in violence will be to its own advantage. If I conclude that increased enemy action jeopardizes our remaining forces in Vietnam, I shall not hesitate to take strong and effective measures to deal with that situation."

"This is not a threat," said the President. "This is a statement of policy which as Commander-in-Chief of our Armed Forces I am making in meeting my responsibility for the protection of American fighting men wherever they may be."

On November 14 last year, in another major policy declaration, the President said:

"...I reaffirm now our willingness to withdraw our forces on a specified timetable. We ask only that North Vietnam withdraw its forces from South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos into North Vietnam, also in accordance with a timetable."

"We include Cambodia and Laos to ensure that these countries would not be used as bases for a renewed war."

When, in April of this year, the communists did increase their aggression on the Cambodian front, stepping up their infiltration to an estimated 80,000 armed troops and guerilla fighters, they were, in effect, calling our bluff.

Let us fervently hope that, this time, the Communists got the message. The withdrawal program of the United States does not contemplate turning the people of South Vietnam over to the tender mercies of the Red goons and killers. The war in Vietnam will be over on the day that the communists cease their aggression and withdraw their troops to North Vietnam. And let not the enemy misinterpret our prayers toward that end as a sign of weakness.

PRESS FREEDOM

Political police in Argentina have closed down several magazines and temporarily stopped publication of Cronica, the largest daily newspaper in Latin America. In Peru, the military government has expropriated two newspapers—Expresso and Extra—imprisoned newsmen and expelled Elsa Arana, Extra's newspaperwoman with Bolivian citizenship. In Bolivia, the press operates under government restrictions and threats. Strict press decrees have been promulgated in Brazil and Panama. In Cuba, Haiti and Paraguay, the media have been brought to heel and report what the governments wish.

All this makes the celebration of Freedom of the Press Day on Sunday, June 7, an exercise in irony, futility and anger. It is being promoted this year as a day of "defiance and determination" by the sponsoring Inter American Press Association. IAPA President James S. Copley, of the Copley chain, has noted that "the flag of freedom flies at half mast" in the Western Hemisphere.

By comparison, the running feud between Vice President Agnew and the media in this country has the appearance of a soap opera. The IAPA—with nearly 600 member newspapers in the United States—does not regard the situation lightly, however. In a recent statement (April 1970) the association said: "There is freedom of the press (in America) but it does not exist without challenge." While Agnew's potshots were noted, the organization was more concerned by what it called the "arbitrary and capricious use" of discretionary powers vested in various public officials.

During the past 15 years, 17,525.2 miles of gravel roads have been oiled in Missouri at a cost of $28,506,410. About 950 miles were graveled in 1969 at a cost of $1,404,950.

WHAT TEENAGERS WANT MOST

Wonder what young people want most from their parents these days? You are not alone. Recently a regional PTA asked the teachers in several Junior High and Senior High schools to request their pupils to write unsigned papers on the subject: "What are the things you wish your parents would do or not do?"

No guidelines were issued. No other questions were asked. The idea was to draw answers "straight off the top of the heads" of the young students. Some of the replies may come as a surprise. A count showed that the wishes expressed most often were:

Be stricter.
Be more dedicated to church work and go to church as a family.

Be fun loving.
Treat my friends like they were welcome.
Try to understand me and my friends.

Don't treat me like a child but depend on me more.
Tell me right from wrong, but don't be too harsh about it.

Not fuss at me before other people.
Not curse, not drink, not smoke.
Answer simple questions without giving a lecture.

Ask my opinion instead of demanding.
Be trustworthy.
Sometimes it takes me a long time to explain why I did something and I'm convicted before the trial begins.

I would like my parents to be more thoughtful of one another. Love one another. Love me.

We are not told where the survey was held. But it is interesting, and significant, that the students should express the wish that parents "be stricter." This would appear to indicate that the so-called "permissive society" of the adult world is not entirely to the liking of young people. The replies show that these youths felt a need for more discipline, along with understanding—and a healthy measure of self-discipline on the part of the parents, too.

The leading automobile manufacturers spent over 100 million dollars for newspaper advertising during 1963.

The automotive industry as a whole spent some 300 million dollars for newspaper space during the year.

These figures do not include the huge amount invested in automotive advertising by local dealers, used car companies, and garages. An all inclusive figure would total more than a billion dollars.

This may appear to be a great deal of money to pour into sales and promotion. But the investment should be judged in terms of results. The advertising helped bring about record sales of goods and services. It brought record profits to manufacturers and retailers. It helped to keep millions of men employed.

The leading American automobile manufacturers learned long ago that the engineering of a good car did not assure success. Countless fine automobiles have been built by firms which did not meet the competition in advertising effort.

General Motors, Ford, and Chrysler have continued to thrive while remaining the three largest newspaper advertisers in the world. The giant national firms have never lost sight of the fact that production is not complete until a sale has been made.

And their continued use of the newspaper, especially in the introduction of new models, reaffirms their belief in the long standing axiom that "all sales are local, and the basic local medium is the community newspaper."

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — To quiet the uproar over recession, President Nixon is preparing a major economic address that will reject wage-price controls and extol the soundness of the American economy.

He will blame his economic woes upon an overheated economy that he inherited from the Democrats, and he will reassure jittery businessmen that the nation will pull out of its economic tailspin during the last half of the year.

Those who have discussed economic policy with the President say he is willing to take any measures that may be necessary to prevent a serious recession. His economic advisers have persuaded him, however, that the steps already taken will stabilize the economy without more drastic controls.

They have stressed that the economy responds slowly to policy changes and that the changes must be kept within bounds to avoid extreme impacts.

There is always an outside chance, of course, that those who advocate stronger controls will change his mind before his economic speech is locked in final form. But this is considered unlikely.

The President's economic policymakers, who meet formally as the Cabinet committee on economic policy, have held 14 secret sessions since the Republican takeover. At more than half of these meetings, George Romney, the square-jawed Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, has pressed for wage-price controls.

At times, Secretary of the Treasury David Kennedy and Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans seemed almost persuaded. But the opposition, led by chief economist Paul McCracken and Secretary of Labor George Schultz, always prevailed.

SECRET MEETINGS
The last meeting was held on May 14 during the stock market's worst spasms, but the planners showed no panic, Vice President Agnew, who presided in President Nixon's absence, alluded to a news report that Romney and Stans were plotting to drop him from the ticket in 1972.

Taking a seat between Romney and Stans, the Vice President grinned. "Here I sit amid my enemies," he said. McCracken gave a brief analysis of the stock market. The only danger, he said, was that falling stock prices might create "an atmosphere of pessimism" and give "a misleading impression of the economy."

This could influence consumers to hold back purchases and businessmen to cut back spending. Otherwise, he was optimistic that both the stock market and the economy would rebound.

Schultz, in a detailed report on productivity, warned that the U.S. was shifting to a service economy. As workers demanded more money for less work, he said, the increases had to be taken out of the economy in the form of higher prices or lower profits.

The Secretary of Labor reported that more "marginal workers" were entering the work force, causing a decrease in the quality as well as the quantity of U.S. goods, the problem is aggravated, he said, by a "loss of motivation."

He complained that the U.S. had fallen behind most other industrial nations in "labor productivity" during the past year or two. He cited the example of Japan, which not only gets better productivity out of its work force but keeps its plants modernized by investing 20 per cent of its output into capital improvements.

The label, "Made in Japan," once meant shoddy, inferior goods. Now it is preferred in many markets to the "Made in the U.S.A." label.

Schultz suggested that the tax laws should be revised to encourage capital investments instead of consumption. But all the policymakers agreed, generally, that the economic outlook is much better than the financial pages make it appear.

CAMPUS REPORT
Eight young White House aides have just returned from a tour of college campuses to find out for President Nixon what the students are saying. Each aide visited three campuses, including those where the action has been the hottest. In a preliminary report to senior aides, who gathered in God Save the 'Queen' unless Congress does something between now and Nov. 2, the Delta Queen, the last real packet on the Mississippi River system, gets the ax from Uncle Sam.

The reason is ridiculous. A government agency has decreed that the "safety-at-sea" regulations, which outlaw any ship carrying more than 50 overnight passengers if it is not built entirely out of steel, must apply to riverboats as well.

For four years the Delta Queen has been operating under a temporary congressional reprieve. The Queen's hull is steel. But its superstructure, in the tradition of riverboats, is wood. The noble carved staircase is mahogany trimmed with brass. The deck is hand-pegged ironwood. The 28-foot stern wheel is made of planking, and the cabins are paneled in oak.

THE Greene Line of Cincinnati, which sends the Delta Queen on cruises down the Ohio and Mississippi and up the Tennessee and Cumberland, has made a valiant effort to meet the government demands.

Only two shipyards even bid on plans for an all-steel, diesel-electric monstrosity. The estimated cost was $10 million. Not many American river-owners could afford the fares necessary to amortize such an investment. THE safety-at-sea regulations were designed to protect passengers hundreds of miles from land and hours from help. A riverboat runs between river banks. Sure, there's some fire danger in a wooden superstructure. There is also a little danger in stacking up 10 707s over O'Hare on a night when the birds are walking. There's some danger in walking the streets of Washington in daylight.

To knock off the Delta Queen because of a law designed for ocean liners would be like pulling down the Tower of London because it doesn't meet city fire escape regulations for public places.

No one would think of allowing passengers to hang on the outside of a New York City bus, but people hang all over San Francisco's wonderful cable cars. If we are going to keep any flavor in America, somewhere there must be an area of common sense.

THE Delta Queen, as all river buffs know, was not born to the inland rivers at all. She started life in 1926 on the overnight Sacramento-San Francisco run. Still, she looks like a riverboat

A fellow was hobbling about on crutches. "What on earth is the matter with you?" a friend asked.

"I broke my leg," said the hobbler.

"How did you do that?" "Well, you see, I was crossing a street one dark night, threw a cigarette in a manhole and stepped on it."

She was a spoiled young girl. She got married and before long, her tummy started protruding. Her mother, not wanting her spoiled daughter to worry, explained it was "just air."

When the girl told her husband that her mother said it was "just air," the husband said, "What does your mother think I'm carrying here, a bicycle pump?"

A friend of ours quit smoking and didn't tell his wife. She went crazy looking for the ashes!

Volkswagen in Tucson ran a newspaper ad showing a Christmas tree fastened to the top of a VW. The headline: "May you always have a little something under your tree."

An alarmed motorist stopped hurriedly when he saw a young man standing beside an overturned small sports car.

"Anybody hurt in the accident?" he inquired.

"There wasn't any accident," replied the young man calmly. "I'm changing the tire."

The handsome prince rode for four days and four nights to visit a king who had two beautiful daughters. But he married the king. The reason? This is a fairy story!

There is no magic formula for the life insurance salesman, or any other salesman. Work and practice make their own rules.

"What made you believe in flying saucers?" "I pinched the waitress."

A track laborer had been moving timbers and ties until he was completely worn out. At the end of the day he approached the foreman and said: "Boss, you sure you got my name right?"

"Yes, here you are — Simpson, John Simpson, isn't that right?"

industry. Numerous crafts are faced with unemployment at the present time.

Mr. Lally rejected both the "home town" and the "Philadelphia Plan" approaches — despite government warning that all federally funded building projects would be halted if there were not some quantitative admission of blacks into the unions and trade.

Mr. Lally feels strongly. So does Mr. Schultz. He noted that the 850-member electrical workers local there had but one black member.

So the government continued to push — behind the scenes. A few days after Mr. Lally spoke out, the black leaders opened up. They set a deadline — Monday, May 25. They said they'd meet the construction workers in the streets — with guns if necessary — to halt work unless their followers were absorbed in the big construction jobs. They had no patience with reports of declining work and employment.

Then the telephone wires heated up. Labor Dept. people talked with George Meany, AFL-CIO president. Privately he telephoned the Pittsburgh building officials. They agreed to attend a mayor's conference on Friday, May 15. There was temporary peace.

But the White House is not backing down. Nor is it asking George Schultz to cool it. There have been no calls from the President to his labor Secretary to ease federal policy — which is not AFL-CIO policy. Few things anger Mr. Meany as much as the President's Philadelphia Plan, which the labor chief charges is ineffective and would hurt the construction trades and black workers as well.

But while Mr. Nixon, Mr. Meany and the hard hats may be allies, as some have put it, the government has begun pushing hard. Mr. Schultz gave the District of Columbia unions here until June 1 to launch their home town plan. They did not. So late that deadline afternoon the Secretary of Labor insisted that the government crack down.

So now there is the "Washington plan," tougher and more wide-ranging than Philadelphia's controversial blueprint.

Instead of covering 6 trades the new plan covers 11 — excluding the carpenters who have 16 per cent minority workers among their nation membership. Also it appears the contractors now must list their "goals" of black work even on non-federally funded projects in the District.

Furthermore, the big push coming — first on six "priority" cities. Then on 1 more.

If there is no home town plan for opening construction jobs to black men, there will be in Seattle, Boston, Detroit, Atlanta, Los Angeles and Newark plans. Then the other Richard Nixon made no deal with the hard hats. They're not leader, New York's Pe Jim Lally, president of the Brennan, asked no favors for Pittsburgh Building and Construction Trades Council elsewhere.

It's still a free country. Lots of people have lots of ideas on how to keep it that way. One way is to agree to disagree under conditions in the construction

Personal Experiences of Drug User
May Prove Helpful to Experimenters

Dear Ann Landers: I read the letter from the hippie signed "Ashamed To Go Back." I was in her shoes-if she had shoes, that is, I didn't.

When I split it was because home was a drag and my mind was really spaced from drugs. I thought San Francisco, L.A. and Mexico had a lot in store for me. Well, I was right. It had acid, pot, 13 people in a three-room apartment and V.D., and thrift stores where you could buy someone's beat-up jeans for $1.

I dug being "free." I thought loving and sharing was beautiful-until I woke up one morning in a Phoenix hospital. The speed I had shared with two other freaks had strychnine in it. You would have thought I learned my lesson but no, it happened again-an O.D. (overdose) of LSD. After that experience I knew the next time I'd kill myself so I decided to go home. I didn't have a cent so I thumbed my way from the West Coast to Ohio. When I got home I walked around the block four times before I could work up the courage to ring the bell.

My mom almost keeled over when she saw me. She threw her arms around my neck and cried. Dad didn't say much but I know he felt the same way. We went into the other room to shed his tears.

I hope every kid who reads this and is "Ashamed To Go Back" will take my word for it. Home is the best place to be and your folks will be happy to see you. I still haven't found myself but I'm alive and looking and thankful for small favors--Back From Hell.

THERE IS SOMETHING NEW under the sun. It's a shifty-shaped, sleeveless beach dress. It covers up a brief bathing suit for the trek from dressing room to beach, or for a luncheon break after a swim. The dress becomes a tunic when you slip it on over pants. Anyway you wear it, this dippy dress is unsuitable for anything but fun.

Royal Touch Graces
A Great Fashion 'Do'

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK-(NEA)--Lord Charles Spencer-Churchill, 6-foot-6, 29-year-old son of the Duke of Marlborough, is probably a man one would least expect to do the commentary on a fashion show. But in his new job as roving ambassador for Allied Chemical he did just that, along with socialite, Mrs. Clyde Newhouse (Maggi McNellis to her former television fans).

The occasion was a benefit for the Colleagues, an organization which provides assistance to young women in temporary need. And the party was held at the Bel Air, Calif., home of Mrs. Howard Keck.

It was a great fashion "do." Such designers as Werle, Georgia Bullock, Jean Louis, Travilla and other notables did the California clothes. Among the designs from New York were goodies by Jacques Tiffau, Scaasi, Adolpho and Malcolm Starr. All the designs were done in Touch nylon and modeled by socialites, including Mrs. Alfred Bloomington, Mrs. Clark Gable, Mrs. Ray Milland and dozens of other very rich ladies and their daughters.

Lord Charles, who in London is part of a public relations firm that represents Sotheby's and several other large art galleries, doesn't feel that the hop from art to fashion will be too difficult. "Although I'm a conservative dresser myself," he said, "I feel that I do know something about fashion. In England, you know, a man has a certain say in what women wear. And I am very outspoken with my dates.

"I think a lot of women dress on nothing and can do it extremely well if they have taste. It is a form of challenge."

Lord Charles says he has great affection for American women. He spends a good deal of time in the States and has met many. But he doesn't believe the ideal girl exists. If he finds devotion and loyalty he's happy. "Beauty is a nice addition but it doesn't mean everything," he added.

It might be worth a try to get invited to the next fashion show the handsome bachelor will tackle. But make sure you're put together tastefully. He does like that.

And life at Blenheim Palace can't be too bad even if the family occupies only the east wing of the 280-room mansion.

Expos Finally Win, Mauch Happy Go Down in Defeat

Now that Gene Mauch has finally tasted victory after two long weeks of bitter losses, the optimistic field general of the lowly Montreal Expos is filled with thoughts of winning. The Expos did it the hard way Friday night, coming from behind with a pair of runs in the seventh and getting a ninth-inning homer from Coco Laboy, to beat Atlanta 3-2.

The triumph snapped Montreal's losing streak at 11 games—the longest in the majors this season—but still left the two-year-old expansion club at the bottom of the National League Eastern Division, 11 1/2 games behind Chicago.

In other games, the Cubs routed San Francisco 12-3, Cincinnati downed New York 5-4 in an eight-inning rain-shortened contest, Pittsburgh blanked Los Angeles 3-0, San Diego nipped St. Louis 3-2 and Houston stopped Philadelphia in 11 innings, 7-1.

In the American League, New York trounced Chicago 10-1, Baltimore edged Milwaukee 3-2, Minnesota topped Washington 2-1, Boston whipped Kansas City 4-2, Oakland beat Detroit 4-2 and California topped Cleveland 2-1.

Four Expos hurlers stopped the major league's hottest hitter, Rico Carty. Carty, the Braves' left fielder went 0-for-3 and dropped seven points to .428.

The Braves jumped to a 2-0 lead but the Expos tied it off starter George Stone in the seventh on three consecutive hits after two were out. John Boccabella doubled, a single by Bobby Wine followed and Bob Bailey's double tied it at 2-2.

Laboy then stroked his game winner off veteran reliever Hoyt Wilhelm in the ninth.

The Cubs bombed Juan Marichal and three successors for 16 hits—four by Jim Hickman, increasing their lead over the Mets to four games. Ron Santo cracked a two-run homer for the Cubs while Ken Henderson and Willie McCovey slammed homers for the Giants.

Willie Mays was injured slightly when he collided in the outfield with Bob Taylor. The Giants' center fielder suffered bruised ribs and a slight cut finger.

Tony Perez drilled his 20th homer of the season—a three-run shot and Lee May lashed a tie-breaking single in the sixth as the Reds downed the Mets in a rain-marred game. The Mets fell to their third straight defeat despite solo homers by Joe Foy and Tommie Agee.

Bob Moose blanked the Dodgers on six hits and the Pirates' right-hander got support from run-scoring singles by Roberto Clemente, Matty Alou and Gene Alley. Moose struck out eight and didn't walk a batter.

Clarence Gaston drove in a pair of runs with a double and single to back the eight-hit pitching of winner Pat Dobson and reliever Roberto Rodriguez in the Padres' victory over the Cardinals.

Denis Menke stroked a run-scoring single in the 11th with one out as the Astros rode to their fourth straight victory. Norm Miller's sacrifice fly in the ninth had tied it for the Astros after Ron Stone's three-run double had given the Phils a 7-6 edge in the eighth.

San Diego's Clarence Gaston and Boston's Carl Yastrzemski were villains to the Cardinals and Royals Friday night as the Padres nipped St. Louis 3-2 and the Red Sox edged Kansas City 4-2.

Gaston drove in two runs, including the deciding tally in the seventh inning, with a double and a single to pace the Padres past the Redbirds.

San Diego went out in front 1-0 in the opening inning on a walk to Steve Huntz, a former Cardinal, and a double by Nate Colbert.

St. Louis tied it in the bottom of the inning when Richie Allen singled in a run. Gaston doubled in Huntz in the third but Joe Torre singled in a Cardinal run in the sixth to tie the game 2-2.

CHICAGO (AP) — All-Star Coach Otto Graham had a 54-player squad, heavily bulwarmed by top pro draftees, lined up today for the July 31 tangle with the pro champion Kansas City Chiefs in the 37th All-Star Football Game at Soldier Field.

Graham announced a unit including quarterbacks Terry Bradshaw of Louisiana Tech; Purdue's Mike Phipps; and San Diego's Dennis Shaw.

The All-Stars, scoring the Joe Namath-paced New York Jets before losing 26-24 last year, will report to Graham and his staff next month at Northwestern University.

The game is sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. Oklahoma tops the All-Star representation with four players. The squad members include: Wide receivers — Ron Shanklin, North Texas State; Offensive linemen — Lynn Larson, Kansas State; Ken Mendenhall, Oklahoma; John Ward, Oklahoma State.

Running backs — Robert Anderson, Colorado; Steve Owens, Oklahoma. Tight ends — Steve Zabel, Oklahoma.

Defensive Linemen — William Brundage, Colorado; Cedric Hardman, North Texas State. Linebackers — Jim Piles, Oklahoma.

Defensive backs — Eric Harris, Colorado.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Belmont Stakes had no Personality today, a fact that considerably dimmed the glamor of the race called "the test of the champion."

Personality, owned by Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs and trained by her son, John, was declared out of the 14-mile classic Friday because of a slight cough and nasal discharge.

This cut the size of the field to 10 3-year-olds and left the 102nd running of the final jewel of the Triple Crown without the winners of the first two-the Kentucky Derby and Preakness.

Derby winner Dust Commander was sent to owner Robert E. Lehmann's farm with a sore ankle after finishing ninth in the Preakness won by Personality.

Personality's withdrawal threw the early favorite's role to Raymond M. Curtis' My Dad George, second in the Derby and Preakness, for the Belmont scheduled to go off at approximately 5:30 p.m., EDT.

Television coverage was set for 5:25-5:45 p.m. both by CBS. The Jacobses were represented by High Echelon, who closed last for a third in the Kentucky Derby and fourth in the Preakness and jersey Derby, the latter also won by Personality.

Others entered were Aggressively, Top Time, Naskra, Delaware Chief, Son Excellence, Hark The Lark, Climber and Needles N Pens.

With 10 starters, the race was worth a gross value of $158,750, with $116,000 to the winner.

Personality's regular jockey, Eddie Belmonte, grabbed a Belmont ride on Her-Jac Stable's Naskra.

Indignation was especially rampant among fathers. Since the Milwaukee Bucks came to town two years ago as an expansion team, and primarily since last season when the Bucks paid $1.4 million for elongated center Lew Alcindor, basketball enthusiasm has flourished.

"All our alleys are lighted now. And since we don't have enough adequate playground space for all those who want to play, alleys have become necessary places to hook up a backboard and basket."

But complaints, particularly from elderly citizens, began streaming across the alderman's desk: the thump of the ball kept many awake; one woman grumbled that as soon as she replaced one $16 window in her garage, it was shattered again by a wayward pass.

And kids were playing into all hours of the night. There was even a group of teen-agers who, upon finishing their late rounds of delivering pizzas, assembled for a hot game of hoops, attendant with cries of foul and assorted whoops, at 3 a.m. Neighbors woke with a start and thought World War III was erupting in their kitchens.

Durocher was beside himself when informed that Fox held the meeting in a hotel room rather than the ball park because of a possible information leak.

Personality, owned by Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs and trained by her son, John, was declared out of the 14-mile classic Friday because of a slight cough and nasal discharge.

Rookie Hurls Victory for Twins

Nine years ago, Bert Blyleven knew nothing about the Little League. Today, the American League knows all about Bert Blyleven. "He's everything people said he was," said Washington slugger Frank Howard after the Senators came out on the short end of a 2-1 score against the Minnesota Twins Friday night in Blyleven's major league debut.

The 19-year-old right-hander, called up from the American Association earlier this week to replace the injured Luis Tiant, hurled seven innings and allowed five hits. The only run came on Lee Maye's leadoff homer.

"I'm glad it happened that way," said Blyleven. "You know, you get the nervousness out of your system, but I would have liked to strike him out. I imagine Mr. Rigney and the rest of them got nervous with that home run."

Elsewhere in the AL, Baltimore edged Milwaukee 3-2, the New York Yankees ripped the Chicago White Sox 10-1, California nipped Cleveland 2-1, Oakland downed Detroit 4-1 and Boston beat Kansas City 4-2.

In National League play, Cincinnati tripped the New York Mets 5-4 in a rain-shortened eight-inning game, the Chicago Cubs outslugged San Francisco 12-8, Montreal got by Atlanta 3-2, Pittsburgh blanked Los Angeles 3-0, San Diego defeated St. Louis 3-2 and Houston turned back Philadelphia 8-7 in 11 innings.

The road to the majors for Ricalbert Blyleven began in Zeist, Holland, where he was born. The family moved to Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, Canada, in 1953 and to southern California in 1957, where Blyleven starred at Garden Grove High.

Blyleven was the Twins' third choice in the recent agent draft last June and went on to post a 7-2 record in two rookie leagues and a sensational 8-0 mark in the Florida Instructional League.

Following Friday's 12-8 loss to the Cubs, Fox was confronted with the matter and said "No truth to it at all. You know Paul. We held the meeting in the hotel yesterday because it was an off day."

Durocher was beside himself when informed that Fox held the meeting in a hotel room rather than the ball park because of a possible information leak.

The Twins scored in the first off loser Casey Cox when Cesar Tovar walked, stole second and came around on Tony Oliva's single. They broke the tie in the fifth on Frank Quilici's infield hit. Blyleven's sacrifice and a single by Tovar. Ron Perranoski preserved Blyleven's victory.

Merv Rettenmund broke a 1-1 tie in the fourth inning with his fifth home run and Ellie Hendrick's fifth-inning homer his third, was the winner as the Orioles nipped the Brewers. Dave McNally, with help from Eddie Watt in the eighth, became the AL's first nine-game winner.

Bobby Murcer drove in three runs with two homers and a double and Mike Michael also knocked three runs across as the Yankees routed Chicago. Roy White also homered as Mel Stottlemyre scattered five hits in posting his first complete game victory.

Oakland took advantage of a two-out throwing error by pitcher Earl Wilson to push across four unearned runs in the sixth inning and beat the Tigers. Wilson knocked down Felipe Alou's hard bouncer, then threw low past first as Bert Campaneris scored all the way from first and Alou wound up on third.

Young Man Puts Faith In Future of Farming

LAForge— There are hundreds of young farmers who believe in farming as a way of life. Young Gardner replied: "Farmers are hard hit now by operating costs, but I feel this will change in the next few years."

Larry Gardner, 24, who lives on a farm on route one of Matthews, four miles north of LaForge, is an example.

He and his wife, Dorothy, and their eight-month old son, John Mark, rented land from the Edward Matthews farms and began farming in 1969. He returned from Vietnam in 1968, after spending 11 months, and decided to have a farming career. His wife is a substitute teacher in the New Madrid R-1 schools. Both are active in the Kewanee Methodist church.

He was asked by Howard Woodall, Farmers Home Administration supervisor, of New Madrid county, why he

How to Get Bins Ready for Grain

PORTAGEVILLE — Small grain harvest will be here before you know it, says Area Agricultural Extension Agent W. F. James. Every year farmers lose money by not having bins cleaned and sprayed thoroughly to remove insects and other sources of contamination.

Here are a few suggestions for getting the bins ready for the new grain.

The first step is to clean out the bins. Sweep down bin ceilings, walls, and floors. Be sure that all old grain is cleaned out of cracks and corners. Any infested grain left in the bin will infest the new grain. Use of a vacuum cleaner in cleaning out the bin would be advisable.

Table salt is one of man's most important condiments. Salt is a combination of the elements sodium and chlorine. The fields at Clarkton and Quin are additional research areas which offer different soil and cropping conditions from those at the Center.

"We have the fields all prepared and we're moving along now," explains acting superintendent William "Bill" Boon. "The wet weather held us up, just like it did everyone else."

Corn is planted and up. Tomato plants have been started at the Center greenhouses and set out. Sugarbeets are up and cultivated.

Cotton test plots were being planted last week and all activities are going at full speed and when weather permits.

Ramblings

by Tom Stroup
Director

BENTON—Bloat is a threat over-hanging cattle and sheep when first turned onto legume forage.

Poloxalene is one of the more effective bloat preventives, but proper management is highly important. An admixture of grasses with legumes is also effective. The combination is less apt to produce bloat than legumes alone.

Delaying pasturing to mid-bloom rather than earlier is a help. So is very gradually accustoming the animals to legume pasture, letting them partly fill up on hay or silage before turning them out. Then they are not so ravenously hungry for the tender palatable forage.

A rack or stack of hay or straw readily accessible, or a swath or two of cured hay on the ground, gives them a chance to eat it and start rumen activity and thus release gases through belching.

Provide free access to salt and water at all times! How important this is! A Wisconsin farm wife stated that she had lived on their farm for 38 years without a cow bloat. She said, "All that is necessary to prevent bloat is to feed cows well at all times and keep a salt box available so that cattle can get at it day and night."

Poloxalene as a bloat preventive was first tested in Kansas State University. It disperses the foam in the rumen or prevents it from forming. Cattle need to be given daily from 10 to 20 grams, depending on their weight.

Some of the important advantages of poloxalene over other bloat preventives are that instead of being effective for only 1 or 2 hours, it is effective for more than 12 hours at a time. Also, poloxalene is not degraded in the digestive tract as are other detergents, and is not absorbed from the digestive tract, thus eliminating the probability of reaching the milk. Its most effective use as found by Louisiana State University was as incorporated in molasses - salt blocks so formulated that cattle licking the blocks would consume at least 10 grams (1/3 ounce) of poloxalene daily per head. Mature cattle depending on salt blocks for their entire salt intake consume at least 1 ounce of salt a day.

Weed Control For Cotton

JOE H. SCOTT
Extension Agronomist
PORTAGEVILLE — Cotton is emerging all over the Bootheel and in many fields weeds are also emerging reports Joe Scott, Agronomist at the Delta Center, Farmers are now confronted with the problem of controlling these weeds with postemergent herbicides and cultivation said Scott.

The most commonly used herbicides for postemergence weed control on cotton are Lorox, DSMA an; MSMA.

Various mixtures of these herbicides can be applied early in the growing season. MSMA is most often used in combination with one of the other herbicides. Surfactant is added to spray mixtures for more effective weed control.

Herban, Cotoran and MSMA can be applied to smaller cotton than Karmex, Caparol or Lorox. MSMA is added to the mixture because it controls cocklebur and annual grasses. With the exception of grasses Cotoran is generally more effective in controlling weeds than Herban.

Karmex should not be applied until cotton is 6 inches tall. At this stage of growth, Karmex is just as effective and more economical than Herban and Cotoran.

Caparol may be applied when cotton is 6 inches tall and is particularly effective for controlling prickly sida (teaweed or iron weed). Lorox should not be applied until cotton plants are 15 inches tall. Lorox is effective for late season control of pigweed, prickly sida and cocklebur. Both Lorox and Caparol can be used for mid-to-late season control of prickly sida.

Herbicide oils are also effective for early season control if applied to healthy cotton and can get good coverage of the weeds. Flame cultivation is another good tool for mid and late season control of weeds. Flame cultivation is another good tool for mid and late season control of weeds. Flame cultivation is effective on morning glory control.

Thrips Show Up in Many Cotton Fields
PORTAGEVILLE — Thrips are showing up in many cotton fields of the Missouri Delta, according to Area Agricultural Extension Agent W. F. James. Thrips are tiny, long bodied insects usually greyish to black in color. They can be easily seen when knocked from the cotton plants onto a white piece of paper.

Normally, spraying to control thrips in cotton is not considered an economical practice. With later planted cotton this year, it may pay to control them.

For those who want to control thrips, the time to apply the material is while cotton is only a few days old. Here's what to use:

One pound of toxaphene (1 1/3 pints 60 to 65% emulsifiable concentrate) per acre.

Or use 0.1 to 0.15 pound Azodrin (1/3 cup or 5 tablespoons 1/2 cup or 8 tablespoons 56% Azodrin water soluble concentrate) per acre.

Or use 0.15 pound Bidrin (1/3 cup or 5 tablespoons 80% Bidrin water soluble concentrate) per acre.

Or use 0.15 pound dimethoate (1/2 pint Cygon 267 emulsifiable concentrate) per acre.

One nozzle set to spray same pests and blights, that directly over the row will usually give sufficient coverage.

The cotton should be checked in about a week after the spraying to see if a new crop of thrips have moved in. daily work, and not just come in on field day."

The fields at Clarkton and Quin are additional research areas which offer different soil and cropping conditions from those at the Center.

"We have the fields all prepared and we're moving along now," explains acting superintendent William "Bill" Boon. "The wet weather held us up, just like it did everyone else."

Corn is planted and up. Tomato plants have been started at the Center greenhouses and set out. Sugarbeets are up and cultivated.

Cotton test plots were being planted last week and all activities are going at full speed and when weather permits.

"It's the same with all the cropping practices. We share the same breaks and setbacks, the same pests and blights, that everyone else gets. That's why we like to have growers stop in to visit throughout the year."

"Our welcome mat is always the spraying to see if a new crop of thrips have moved in. daily work, and not just come in on field day."

POLLY'S POINTERS

Nail Polish Brings Sheen

Back to Pearl Buttons

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Mrs. E. D. wanted to know how she could bring back the sheen to pearl buttons that have become dull from laundering. I suggest clear nail polish. If that makes them too glossy, try the frosty clear, which might look better. They can be retouched any time it is needed.

I think Irma had a good idea for making candles fit in the holders but we would hesitate about letting the wax that melts off run down the drain. It immediately hardens when reaching the inside of the cold drain, even when flushed with hot water.—ESTHER

Thanks for the reminder, Esther. A cloth or paper towel could be put over the drain to catch the wax and then both removed and put in the trash can.—POLLY

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY—While attending a kitchen shower for a bride-to-be, one of the guests presented an attractive "corsage" made of various kitchen utensils. Among them were several scouring pads made from colorful plastic onion bags. I would like to know how to make these scouring pads and such corsages, too.—MRS. D. G.

DEAR POLLY—After the family has gone to bed, I like to "pick up" the cluttered living room so when the sun comes up I will have at least one straight room. After washing any snack trays, carrying out the pop bottles and newspapers, I was always faced with full ash trays, which I was afraid to empty, so I always left them. One night, I decided I could not bear to smell the stale contents, so I took them to the kitchen and looked around to see how I could safely dispose of them. I dumped all the contents of the ash trays in the center of a piece of aluminum foil, folded it up to make a neat, air-tight package, then squeezed this in my hand. No more worrying! I washed the ash trays and went to bed with a clear mind.—JUDY

DEAR JUDY—A dash of baking soda over the ashes and cigarette butts would be a bit of double insurance if you are not too sure about any remaining sparks. Why not ask

each one in the family to carry his own tray and bottle back to the kitchen before taking off for bed—not much for them to do and would save you some steps?—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—While sewing on the machine, I discovered that the material was being pulled. I sharpened my old needle with an emery board, just as though I was sharpening a pencil, and the needle worked like new.—G. C. G.

Rate Raise

Granted to ## Light Co.

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—The Missouri Public Service Commission today granted Kansas City Power and Light Co. a 3 per cent increase in rates, enough to boost annual revenues by an estimated $2,537,539.

The electric power utility asked last July for a rate hike that would have brought in about $5.8 million more a year than present rates.

The commission voted 4-1 for the decision. Commissioner Howard Elliott Jr. dissented because, he said, the commission made two accounting adjustments that should not have been made.

The commission figured the approved rate hike would give the firm a net return of 6.76 per cent, based on a fair value of the plant of $35,500,000.

The utility has not had a rate hike since 1963 but since then has reduced rates two times. This time it asked for the increase because of sharply increased costs of operation. It serves customers in Jackson, Carroll, Cass, Chariton, Clay, Howard, Lafayette, Mercer, Pettis, Platte, Randolph and Saline counties.

Kansas City, Armo Steel Corp. and the federal government in behalf of the Atomic Energy Commission opposed the full increase the utility requested.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Hospitals should not permit smoking anywhere on the premises, an official of Lung Physicians Against Air Pollution said Friday.

"We're going to try to convince doctors and hospitals to get rid of cigarette smoking in hospitals, and certainly not be an agent for the sale of tobacco within hospitals," Flance said.

Nixon Must Block Cambodian Coast

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)

Difficult as the decision may be, President Nixon will almost certainly be forced into one additional daring step if his Cambodian gamble is to succeed.

He must inevitably openly or covertly blockade the south Cambodian coast from Sihanouville east to the South Vietnam border.

Otherwise, it is unlikely that Nixon will be able to buy the six months respite his destruction of North Vietnam's bases in Cambodia is intended to purchase.

Even with the monsoons this summer, there is no reason why the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese cannot resupply themselves with some dispatch if they can ship what they need by sea to the southern Cambodian coast, then move it overland through eastern Cambodia to new supply dumps along the South Vietnamese border.

A selective sea blockade of the southern Cambodian coast need not involve American crews. It can be carried out with quite small, well-armed vessels. These can be operated by South Vietnamese, though possibly some American advisers will be required.

Since the new government in Cambodia closed the port of Sihanouville to Communist arms shipments a short time back, North Vietnamese troops have been making determined efforts to open a direct supply route to the sea on a line somewhere between Sihanouville and Cambodia's eastern border with South Vietnam.

The exact portion of the coast they wish to occupy is not clear at this writing.

It has been estimated that until recent weeks, some 75 per cent of the arms and military supplies (other than food) the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese require for their operations south of Saigon came in through Sihanouville.

Most North Vietnamese-Viet Cong operations in South Vietnam north of Saigon are reportedly supplied through the northern supply routes that wind through Laos by way of the Ho Chi Minh trails. American military men estimate, correctly or incorrectly, that the monsoons in June, July, August and early September will take the edge off a major build-up from that direction until this fall.

That leaves the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) between North and South Vietnam, through which the Communists brought considerable tonnage at one time. This route must be kept closed also if the Cambodian strikes are to achieve the cutoff in supplies Nixon wants.

The crucial necessity of keeping the DMZ closed as noted above is the grim reality behind Defense Secretary Laird's warning to Hanoi that he would recommend bombing the north if the Zone was used for major infiltrations.

Southern Baptist Convention Begins

DENVER (AP) — With a plea for unity from its president, the big Southern Baptist Convention today began its annual working sessions, facing issues that threatened to explode into conflict.

Under fire were the denomination's social action agency, and recent publications offering modern critical analysis of some passages of the Bible.

There also was a call for accepting inter-racial marriage, an unusual note in the Southern-based denomination whose 11.5 million members spread throughout the nation make it the largest Protestant body in the United States.

Christians "need to courageously seek persons of other races to mixed with— and to marry," the Rev. Dr. R. view as the same as that held by Lofton Hudson, director of a infidels.

Meanwhile, a group called the "Affirming the Bible Conference" took shape to press for tighter controls to curb alleged "liberal influences" appearing in denominational literature.

A particular target was a newly published Broadman Bible Commentary, attacked for its so-called "liberal stance on interpretation of Genesis."

The denomination's social troubled world if we lose the action arm, the Christian Life doctrinal basis for the gospel we preach," he told the for its sponsorship of a debate in approximately 12,000 Atlanta last fall involving a "messengers" from local Playboys magazine representative and an advocate of "situation ethics."

They gave him standing applause.

"When we cease to believe in Baptist doctrines, we are no longer Baptists," he said. "We have become something else."

His previous insistence on belief in the infallibility of the Bible recently led two Baptist professors to quit their University of Richmond teaching posts, and the

Scarred Program May Get Lift in Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The scarred but lively Agricultural Conservation Program which helps farmers bear costs for land improvements may get a new lease on life in an appropriations bill scheduled today in Congress.

The ACP has been a target for budget cutters through several administrations. In 1969 and again this year, Nixon budget experts have recommended phasing out the program which costs around $200 million annually in cost-sharing benefits to farmers.

But Congress, led by Rep. Jamie L. Whitten, D-Miss., traditionally has restored ACP funds to keep the popular program operating. Whitten is chairman of the agriculture appropriations subcommittee which was scheduled to report today its bill for 1970-71 Agriculture Department financing.

Whitten has taken a dim view of administration attempts to trim or eliminate ACP, which has provided the main financial assistance for conservation-minded farmers since the mid-1930s.

Whitten indicated continued support of ACP during testimony in March which was made public on Wednesday.

Among other things, Whitten told an Agriculture Department witness, ACP funds help carry out development and flood-prevention projects supervised by the U. R. Soil Conservation Service.

"If the ACP program is abolished for next year," Whitten said, "it would mean that 870 Soil Conservation technicians would be eliminated with the resulting effect on carrying out the Soil Conservation Service operation and carrying out the watershed programs."

Whitten made his comments to Kenneth E. Frick, administrator of the Agricultural

$348,000 Month Payout in County

CAPE GIRARDEAU — retired, disabled, or decedent Social security benefits paid to residents of Scott county totaled $348,000 a month as 1969 ended, Clifford Forsee, social security district manager, reported today.

A benefit increase, signed into law by President Nixon Dec. 30 has since raised the monthly rate of payment by 15 per cent for the 4,964 social security beneficiaries in the County, Forsee noted.

Of the social security beneficiaries living in the county, 2,987 are retired workers and their dependents. Another 1,224 are receiving benefits as the survivors of workers who have died, and 753 are getting benefits as disabled workers or the dependents of disabled workers.

Based upon the 1970 census figures, about 15%, or one person in a little over six, are receiving social security benefits in the county.

Forsee pointed out that although the majority of social security beneficiaries are older people, about one out of every four is under 60.

In Missouri, 129,000 people under 60 are collecting social security payments each month. The 72,200, who are under 18, are receiving payments because a working father or mother has died or is getting social security disability or retirement benefits.

Of the 10,360 who are 18 through 21 most are getting students' benefits under a provision which permits the continuation of a child's benefits past his or her 18th birthday, up to 22 if he or she is attending school full time.

But in this 18 to 22 age group, Forsee said, are some other types of beneficiaries, illustrating the broad family protection that is provided working people of all ages under the social security program.

Doves' Myopia on Hanoi Treachery

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)

Possibly the doves would have had a great deal more impact on the Vietnam war if they had chosen to view Hanoi through the same sharp lens they turned on us and on various Saigon governments.

But, from the outset, too many leading doves have made themselves masters of the double standard. By one means or another, including the heavy emphasis of silence, they have conveyed the impression that the Reds in Hanoi are a benign lot, doing the people's will at home and lending a friendly hand to an oppressed people in South Vietnam.

One of the doves' favorite themes is that, as practiced by the late Ho Chi Minh and his successors, communism is nothing but Vietnamese nationalism and that our entry into the fray is a blind man's intervention tending only to impede a natural surge toward nationalism.

The nationalism of the Vietnamese is real enough. But I checked again on Hanoi's role in its post-World War II upsurge. The historians agree that in 1945-46, just before Ho sent his so-called Viet Minh forces into an eight-year war with the French in Indochina, he callously wiped out every nationalist rival he could find.

Many key doves like to say that North and South Vietnam are "really one country," so why should anybody be mixing in their affairs for any reason whatsoever?

The fact is, for most of 300 years Vietnam was divided in either halves or thirds. For a time, centuries ago, there were Chinese-style walls separating two Vietnamese regions on a line not far above the present border at the 17th Parallel.

Regional differences are a major force in Vietnam. Most of the "first Indochina war" against the French was fought by the Viet Minh in the north, with the south largely a supplier.

For hundred of years, the Vietnamese of the Red River delta around Hanoi have been highly aggressive. They once swallowed up much of Laos and Cambodia, and it is they who colonized South Vietnam by wiping out the ancient Champa (Indian-descendant) empire.

Those who settled in the south grew to be far different from their restless northern brothers, and the enmity between north and south is deep.

The big doves love to describe our fighting in Vietnam as "genocide." They are peculiarly mute when looking at the real genocide the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong have visited upon thousands of South Vietnamese. They have wiped out a whole class (chiefs, teachers, etc.) of able, irreplaceable South Vietnamese leaders—real or potential. The Hanoi-VC flags are drenched in the blood of innocents, and young Americans who wave them are cruelly color-blind.

Full recital of Hanoi's sins would make a brutal book. Why go on? The doves proclaim noble motives, yet their double vision has always clouded them. Dwelling heavily on our errors, they have disfigured themselves beyond all credibility as witnesses. Their "humanity" is fiction.

London Has a See-Through Candidate

LONDON (AP) — On the screen she is the madam of a brothel dressed in a see-through nightie. On the streets she is a candidate for the House of Commons. "Disgusting," said some women voters in South Lewisham, where Diane Hart, actress-turned-politician, is running as an independent in the June 18 election. "Great," said truck driver Ken Bridger. "She brings a little color to the election."

Miss Hart appears in the film "Two Women" sitting in bed with Joanna Lumley, who is naked from the waist up. Miss Lumley plays a prostitute. "I was a bit worried about the picture," Miss Hart admitted. Miss Hart, who has formed a pressure group to get more women into Parliament, added: "I can't see that revealing so much of myself should upset my constituents."

GAY GAILLARDIAS

Fiesta is the name of this gaillardia which has smoky-red petals, tipped yellow.

Gaillardias are known for the profusion of flowers they produce and for the length of time over which they continue to bloom. "All summer long" is not an idle phrase when applied to these plants.

There are both annual and perennial gaillardias, both equally easy to grow from seeds sown where the plants are to bloom.

Gaillardias prefer light, open soil and must have both sunlight and air. With these conditions met, they'll provide you with a constant show of blossoms for cutting or to make your garden gay.

Single-flowered gaillardias have just one row of petals but double ones are rounded heads filled with petals and are generally more popular with gardeners.

While gaillardia flowers normally are 2½ to 3 inches across, those of some tetraploid varieties are 4 inches in diameter.

Flower colors are various shades of yellow to orange and a series of off-reds, brick claret and "smoky." They combine well with most other flower colors — another point in their favor.

Keep on serving. Keep on learning.

A man who serves in the U.S. Army Reserve is helping more than his country. He's also helping himself. By keeping sharp for his civilian career through on-the-job training. By giving himself the chance to further that career through courses at Army Reserve Schools. It pays to join. It pays to stay.

THE U.S. ARMY RESERVE

NOSE TO NOSE, almost. Strategically placed glass partition separates a small visitor from an inquisitive turtle at a Nassau aquarium in the Bahamas.

POWER through love may be symbolized by University of Rhode Island student clutching kitten with one hand while other is raised in familiar salute.

Paul Bunyan is a mythical hero of huge dimensions, who "accomplished" many fantastic tasks. During the 1920s, James Stevens' stories popularized the lumberman as a giant industrialist. The World Almanac says, Bunyan became a national symbol for bigness, strength, ingenuity and exaggeration that reflected America's motivation to achieve insurmountable tasks.

Christ: Rebel vs. The Establishment

By DAVID POLING

Many people turn to devotional reading for Lent. Their concern is the care and feeding of the soul and this is a proper, timeless observation of the meaning of Lent. They trace the life of Christ, especially the climactic events of Holy Week and the victory of Easter morning.

But the other half of the Christian experience is involvement, not retreat. And for those who want spiritual adventure they would do well to get a copy of "The Power Tactics of Jesus Christ" by Jay Haley (Grossman $4.95). This book can be read during any season but has special relevance to the Lenten period.

It is Haley's contention that Jesus of Nazareth was the master strategist of social and political change. He was able to analyze carefully the strength of Rome and the power of the religious establishment. He knew he was unable to raise armies equal to that of the Caesars or wealth comparable to that of the Temple. So he devised the "surrender tactic" which gave a new weapon to the poor and oppressed.

This comes from the admonition of Jesus to "turn the other cheek" and to go the second mile when forced to carry a burden the first. By this attitude of meekness and submission, the conqueror finds that his violence is blunted and his authority challenged. Gandhi and Martin Luther King Jr. followed most closely Jesus' tactics.

Haley feels that the real contest of Jesus and the people in charge is fought during Holy Week. While there are many conflicting accounts in scripture, one thing is sure: "When Jesus went into the final struggle he arranged a situation where there was no hope of compromise. He condemned the clergy, he condemned the temple, and finally he made a physical assault upon the temple. Although Jesus took care not to call for open rebellion against the priestly hierarchy, he thoroughly discredited them."

Haley contends that Jesus instructed his followers in nonviolent maneuvers yet employed rather forceful action himself. Throwing the money changers out of the temple and turning over their tables was no small happening. "His attack demonstrates his skill as a tactician, for he chose his opponents' most vulnerable area for his attack. He did not violate the altar or intrude upon the Holy of Holies—he focused on the commercial aspect of the temple, saying they were turning a house of prayer into a robbers' cave."

Jesus gained a great deal of fame and attention in the city. His strategy was successful as he forced the Sanhedrin as well as Pilate to judge him publicly. It is Haley's idea that Jesus really hoped to take over the power structure of Jerusalem. When faced with the Cross, he still believed in his ultimate victory through the Resurrection.

Although they will not admit it, Haley feels that all modern mass movements are tailored after the model formed by Jesus. Black Power, Fascist, Communist—all revolutionary forces have used his tactics. What they have not found is the meaning of his love.

Wanted-Slogan for City of Sikeston

50 years ago
June 6, 1920

The Sikeston Chamber of Commerce wants a slogan for the city and is going to offer a reward to the boy or girl of school age living in the city who can suggest the best one.

Wade Malcolm and Elizabeth Adams, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Otis Brown, surprised their friends by going to Bertrand, Sunday afternoon, where they were united in marriage by the Rev. Linn Haw, pastor of the Methodist Church at that place.

On Thursday of last week, Loomis Mayfield bought Tommie Stevens' interest in the Sikeston Cleaning and Tailoring Co. Last August young Mayfield and Stevens purchased the plant from J. Edgar White and have been doing a splendid business. Stevens will remain with the firm and continue to give the splendid service to patrons of the firm that he has in the past.

John L. Tanner of Sikeston was one of the last men to file for office in Scott County last week. Mr. Tanner seeks the office of judge of county court from the first district.

Study Carrels

Installed at Cape Library

CAPE GIRARDEAU—Sixty study carrels, each accommodating two students, are being installed in the graduate reading room of Kent Library at Southeast Missouri State College and will be ready for use when the summer term opens Monday.

Dr. Felix Snider, director of the library, said the carrels will serve as something similar to an office for graduate students.

Each carrel will be equipped with two lockable cupboards.

The graduate enrollment at the college always booms during the summer term, since most of Southeast Missouri State's graduate students are teachers who utilize the summer months to pursue an advanced degree.

Dr. James Dickey, dean of graduate studies at the college, estimates there will be 700 or more graduate students on the campus this summer, including those who come here especially to take part in a special institute or workshop.

So the 60 carrels, accommodating 120 students, will not take care of anything Margaret Ann Hatfield, Mary like the total number of Ann Johnson, Margaret Gray graduate students, but they will represent a significant improvement over the past.

If You Were the Judge

Insane Without Guardians Can Vote

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Looney was confined to a funny farm and was just crazy about it. As it developed, however, he was also crazy about politics and politicians. Thus, when election time rolled around, he wrote for and received an absentee ballot. Later, when it was discovered that Looney had been declared insane years earlier, proceedings were started in court to have his vote scratched.

"Only sane people can vote in an election, the judge was reminded. "Since Looney was null and void at the time he voted, so was his ballot."

"Who says so?" responded Looney with great indignation. "The statute that specifically disqualifies insane people from voting refers only to those insane people who have had guardians appointed for them. Since no guardian was ever appointed for me, I'm entitled to vote like all the other looney people in this world."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you cancel out looney Looney's vote?

This is how the judge voted: NO! The judge held that, literally construed, the voting statute only excluded those insane people from voting who had guardians appointed for them. Therefore, despite Looney's insanity, he was not precluded from voting since no guardian was ever appointed for him.

(Based upon a 1963 Missouri Supreme Court Decision) advantages accruing from this arrangement," said Dr. Snider, "is that a student may collect needed books and keep them until the end of the term, if no one else has need of them."

If someone else needs a book that a graduate student has in his carrel, the librarian will take it, but as soon as possible, it will be recharged to the carrel, if the student still wants it, according to Dr. Snider.

The director of the library said the system will work smoothly if the graduate students cooperate and keep only material in their carrels that has been properly cleared at the library desk.

Hogs Are Leaner

WASHINGTON AP—Agriculture Department statistics on world lard trade indicate American hogs are getting leaner than those in other countries.

World lard output last year was about 7.56 billion pounds, or 2.6 per cent less than in 1968, the department says. But, lard production in relation to pork has increased in most countries, partly because of closer trimming of carcasses and heavier animals going to market.

"The smaller percentage gain in lard production compared with pork production in the United States is indicative of the continued downward trend in the average yield per animal," the department said in a report.

Imagine a world 20 years from now in which free nations cooperate with one another as freely as the states of our own nation. An Atlantic Community which shares an economic system...educational standards...maybe a common currency...and all the fruits of their mutual research and learning. A community that enjoys a quality of life hitherto unknown on the face of this earth.

To imagine this, you also have to imagine a free world so strong that it does not have to fear attack or waste its resources on fighting and useless wars.

With NATO's help, this can be a continuation of the processes of cooperation started by the 15 members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization 20 years ago. By cooperating to share the cost of protection, these nations have learned to cooperate in many other ways. The result has been not only 20 years of relative safety, but, also, 20 years of unprecedented prosperity.

If NATO leads to a true Atlantic Community we may all live to see a far better world in 1989.

Because NATO is here today—we can build a better tomorrow.
